Berlin Squeeze Tightens; Red Police Shoot To Kill

Capital Punishment Voted For Michigan Convicts Who Kill

LANSING—(AP)—Hoping to discourage prisoners from holding guards as hostages and threatening their lives, the House yesterday passed a bill providing electrocution of convicts who commit murder.

But at the same time, the chamber defeated a bill designed to discourage rioting, damaging prison property and holding prison employes against their will by providing life imprisonment for such crimes.

Senate Favorable

Both measures grew out of last month's riot at Southern Michigan prison.

The capital punishment measure barely made the grade, attracting a simple majority vote of 51. Opposition votes totaled 27.

The bill went to a favorably disposed Senate judiciary committee for action before June 3 when the legislature returns from a long Memorial Day recess.

The riot bill was defeated on a 45-33 vote.

Proponents of the measures claimed they would act as deterrents to future prison trouble. Opponents, led by Democrats, said they were a negative approach to prison problems and recommended positive action such as providing enough space and personnel to maintain an enlightened corrections program.

Tired of Coddling

"We do not claim to have the whole answer," said Rep. Robert M. Montgomery (R-Lansing), "but we do think we have part of it."

The sponsor of the capital punishment bill added he did not believe it would ever have to be used.

Some of his allies said they and their constituents were "sick and tired of coddling prisoners."

The Senate passed and sent to the House for consideration next week bills providing money for more prison guards and repair of Southern Michigan prison—but far less than Governor Williams asked.

The bill allows $368,750 to hire 37

TEXAS GOP SPLIT — A determined loking Eisenhower supporter, George Hutchins, Edna, Texas, leaves little doubt in the minds of Republican delegates to the State Convention at Mineral Wells, Texas, who he will be rooting for, as he rips a Taft sign from the wall close to the executive meeting site. Feuding Texas Republicans will send two sets of delegates to the Chicago national convention. (NEA Telephoto)

Taft Now Ahead Of Eisenhower By 22 Delegates

(By The Associated Press)

Voting that ranged from calm in Connecticut to tumultuous in Texas tightened both the Republican and Democratic races for presidential-nominating votes today (Wednesday.)

Feuding Texans started out with two conventions yesterday and wound up with four. Each put up delegations to the national conventions in July at Chicago, where the question of which to recognize must be decided.

Connecticut's Republican convention at Hartford named a 22-vote delegation and, in Florida, Democrats in a primary elected a delegation with 24 votes.

Russell Takes Lead

The upshot: Gen. Dwight Eisenhower pulled within 22 votes of Ohio Sen. Robert Taft in the Republican pre-convention vote-gathering. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia apparently jumped ahead of mutual security administrator W. Averell Harriman in the skirmishing for second place in Democratic race.

Hence, the Associated Press tabulation of nationwide delegate strength—based on concessions, pledges, instructions and avowed preferences—now shows:

Republican—Taft 404, Eisenhower 382. Nomination requires 604.

Democratic—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee 117, Russell 86½, Harriman 85½, nomination needs 616.

Texas Has Walkout

Florida Democrats divided their 24 convention votes apparently on the basis of 19 for Russell and five for Kefauver. Primary returns pointed that way, but were coming in slowly and could change the spread.

Texas Republicans met at a Mineral Wells convention to name a 38-vote delegaton. Many Eisenhower backers were denied seats at the meeting, and they walked out and set up their own state gathering.

While the Taft-dominated convention picked a delegation lined up 35 for Taft and three for Eisenhower, the other meeting named its own delegation—33 for Eisenhower and five for Taft.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, Eisenhower campaign manager, complained: "Political trickery." Taft-backer Henry Zweifel, Texas GOP national committeeman, said the Eisenhower supporters in Texas were really Democrats who had never voted Republican before.

New OPS Ceilings Boost Food Prices

By WILLIAM O. VARN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government is expected to announce tonight ceiling price boosts of about a penny each for a wide range of food items.

That's how much the Office of Price Stabilization estimated the increases would bring to the grocer—although it said the nation's food bill would go up about 100 million dollars a year under the new ceilings.

Scare Tactics Charged

These figures were challenged by four food distribution groups which said the adjustments would have little effect on prices. They said competition, not ceilings, decides prices. If food retailers had gotten all the prices relief they have sought and could reflect in their prices, they said, increases of food prices to consumers would be only about five cents a week per person.

"OPS is using scare tactics in an effort to perpetuate controls," said a statement by the National Association of Retail Grocers, the Cooperative Food Distributors of America, the National Association of Food Chains and the Super Market Institute.

"The public should understand that competition is the factor today which is keeping food prices down," the statement said. "OPS has little or nothing to do with it. More than 50 per cent of all the foods sold today in grocery stores are below ceilings. Most of the food items selling below ceilings are those items most frequently purchased by consumers in the low and middle income groups."

The statement said controls are doing more harm than good in the few cases where supplies are temporarily short.

More Harm Than Good

However, OPS officials made clear to reporters that the higher ceilings would not necessarily mean that prices of all the items affected would go up. They will vary with stores and public demand, they said.

The OPS order will authorize higher margins for all retail food stores—both chains and independents.

OPS officials said the action is necessary because earnings of the grocers have declined.

Affected by the higher margins and ceilings will be some of the items in this wide range of foods:

Dry cereals, canned vegetables and soups, pickles, vinegar, olives, most canned meats and processed fish such as smoked fish and herring, oleomargarine, cookies and crackers, frozen foods, jams and jellies, canned fruits and others. Tuna and salmon are not included.

Bonn Alliance Brings Russian Revenge Moves

BERLIN — (AP)—Communist East Germany tightened its squeeze on blockade-threatened Berlin another notch today. Orders went out to Red police to shoot to kill anyone caught without a proper pass in the Iron Curtain's new three-mile no man's land along the West German border.

The shooting order was the latest in a series of revenge moves against the Bonn government's alliance with the west. It all but sealed off the Communist-girt former capital, which trembled in fear, of a resumption of the 1948-49 siege.

Threat To Big 3

The Russians continued their ban on Allied military patrols travelling the 110-mile Berlin-Helmstedt Autobahn, sole highway link between the isolated city and the west.

Regular civilian traffic continued to flow normally, but a new formula for transit visas adopted by the Reds yesterday could choke off traffic between West Berlin and the Bonn republic at any time.

In Paris the Big Three western powers said they would regard aggression against Berlin as a threat to their own security.

The new visa formula tears up an agreement between the western powers and Russia which had allowed West Berlin and West German authorities to issue interzonal passes for transit travel through the Russian zone in either direction.

Communications Cut

The move had the following significance:

1. Every truck driver, railroad employe or canal barge operator traveling through the area is at East Germany's mercy.

2. The 2,200,000 West Berliners can be virtually cut off from travel into or through the surrounding Soviet zone.

Yesterday the Red German regime cut all telephone service between Berlin and the Russian sector, and some long distance lines to the west.

Third U. S. General Loses His Command Over Koje Kidnaping

By WILLIAM ORDEN

KOJE ISLAND, Korea— (AP) — A third American general is losing his command because of the kidnaping of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Communist prisoners of war, it was learned today.

He is Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, commander of the Pusan Army base who was reprimanded in Washington last week. The department of the Army said he "overlooked the erroneous implications" of promises made to secure Dodd's release by POWs on Koje Island.

A high military official who declined use of his name told the Associated Press Yount would be transferred within a week.

The promises, made by Brig. Gen. Charles Colson, led to still continuing Red propaganda blasts at the United Nations command. They were repudiated by Gen. Mark Clark, Far East commander.

The U. N. POW camp on Koje was in Yount's Pusan command.

Both generals Dodd and Colson successively were ousted as Koje commanders and were demoted to their permanent rank of colonel because of the kidnaping and Colson's promises.

Ironically, Yount was due for normal reassignment in a month. His new assignment was not divulged. But before the Koje incident he was reported slated for duty with the Army chief of transportation in Washington.

Banners Coming Down

Clark's personal representative inspected Koje today and reported the prisoner situation "touchy but I think we've got it in hand."

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, deputy chief of staff to Clark, toured the rebellious camp with Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, the new commandant.

Asked about Red prisoner signs attacking the U. N., Bryan replied:

"I don't like them any better than you do. When we are ready to move the banners will come down."

Bryan did not say when Boatner will move.

American soldiers are rushing to completion new smaller, more manageable compounds.

Fascism Gaining Ground In Italy

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME—(AP)—Fiercely nationalist Fascism, soaring in new returns from last weekend's local elections, challenged Communism today as Italy's second strongest political force.

The rapidly rising party is the Italian Social Movement (MSI), which believes in Mussolini's corporate state in open defiance of Italian constitutional bans on resurgent Fascism.

It teamed with the diehard Italian Monarchist party—whose pre-war king played straight man for Il Duce—to pull the biggest surprise of the Sunday-Monday elections in 2,400 Italian towns and 26 provinces.

While Premier Alcide De Gasperi's pro-western Christian Democrat government majority bloc was winning in Rome—the biggest prize—the MSI-Monarchist alliance seized control of two rich consolations.

The rightwing hookup captured both the provincial and city councils of Naples, NATI headquarters for southern Europe, and Bari, through which much U. S. arms aid funnels to Italy.

Actress Ingrid Ready To Welcome Twins

ROME—(AP)—Expectant mother Ingrid Bergman was back today in Salvatore Mundi Hospital, which sent her home after a false alarm last week. This time doctors said she will give birth to twins in a day or so.

The film star said the nurses are much more jittery about the impending event than she is.

Lake Michigan Diversion Urged

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Public Works committee met again today in an effort to solve the high water level problem on Lake Michigan which has already caused millions of dollars in damages to private property, especially along the western Michigan shoreline.

Yesterday the committee heard a pair of Republican representatives, Ford of Michigan and Sheehan of Illinois endorse a plan which calls for diverting additional water through the Chicago sanitary canal.

Army engineers estimated that diversion of more water would lower the lake level only about one inch. But, Ford said, "any remedy will help some."

So far, Ford said the damage caused by high water on the second largest of the great lakes already exceeds the 26 million dollar figure. And he predicted much greater loss since the lake will probably rise another foot this year.

Ford added that Fred W. Trezise, associate dean of the University of Illinois, college of engineering, suggested an immediate increase in diverting the lake water through the Chicago canal.

Sheehan told the committee that the diversion would not cost the federal government a cent since Chicago already has the facilities to handle it.

Bomber Blows Up At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH—(AP)—A giant B-36 bomber exploded and burst into flames as it hit a runway at Carswell Air Force base here at 12:05 p. m. today.

Smoke billowed into the sky and flames spread about the crash area.

A witness said he thought one wing exploded and then the fire began.

There was no immediate report of casualties.

A B-36 ordinarily carries a crew of 15 or 16.

An airman at the field was asked if they got anybody out. He said, "They didn't have a chance."

Application Filed For Straits Bridge Loan Of 85 Million

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Michigan agency has applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) for an 85 million dollar loan to build a bridge connecting the Upper and Lower portions of the Michigan peninsula.

Administrator Harry A. McDonald of RFC announced today receipt of the application. It was filed by Mackinac Bridge Authority, a corporation created by the 1950 Michigan legislature.

The project calls for a five mile bridge across the Strait of Mackinac, from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace.

Senate Turns Down Cut Of 500 Million In Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate today rejected, by a 41 to 33 vote, a further 500 million dollar cut in the $6,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

Neither side in the sharp controversy on trimming the aid program had been sure in advance how the vote would go.

The bill now goes to conference with the House which voted last week for a $6,163,000,000 bill, or $1,737,000,000 less than President Truman asked. The House reductions have brought scathing attacks from Truman and officials administering the mutual security program.

The Senate took one vote yesterday—a 35 to 27 tally to defeat a billion dollar reduction also sponsored by Welker.

There were 34 absentees on this roll call — 18 Democrats and 16 Republicans. Telegrams and phone calls went out to these Senators from both sides last night.

With defeat of the 500 million dollar cut Sen. Long (D-La.) was expected to call up an amendment for a 400 million dollar reduction.

Billions Unspent

Opponents of any floor cuts took two main lines:

1. That the $6,900,000,000 program is essential to meet United States commitments to its Allies in the cold war and that it is far less expensive than arming additional American forces.

2. That an adverse floor vote would be interpreted as a breach of faith by this country at a time when Russia is putting on propaganda pressure in non-Communist countries.

Backers of a reduction countered:

1. That some further cuts must be made if there is to be any chance of getting a balanced budget and stopping inflation.

2. That there are more than eight billion dollars of unspent funds for the mutual security program on hand from previous appropriations.

Preacher Prays, Fasts 37 Days

CHERRYVILLE, Mo.—(AP) — An Ozark preacher—claiming he hasn't eaten in 37 days—vowed today to fast until death unless his prayers are answered for a religious revival to save the world from sin and Communism.

The Rev. J. J. Ivie, 55-year-old minister of the Assembly of God Church, is weakening physically but was reported by friends still able to walk.

The stocky minister has kept to his room since he began his fast, rejecting efforts by authorities of his church to persuade him to end it.

Ivie has given his wife strict instructions not to permit a physician in their home, even if he becomes unconscious. He has prepared a signed statement to protect his wife from possible legal action in the event of his death.

The Rev. J. P. Myers, pastor at neighboring Steelville, conferred with the Church's National Headquarters at Springfield, Mo., regarding the fast.

He said that a sustained fast which does bodily harm is not a tenet of the church. Myers added that he and another official of the church went to Ivie's home May 16 to see whether Ivie wouldn't end his fast, but that he refused to see them.

Model Quizzed In $7200 Theft

DETROIT—(AP)—Glamorous Ellen Nelson, 24, a photographer's model, was held for questioning today in the $7,200 holdup of a commercial artist's studio.

The blonde model, a former carnival dancer known as Sima Caire, and Clarence R. Pannell Jr. 34, were arrested yesterday and held for investigation of armed robbery.

Police said Pannell admitted robbing the basement studio of Bruce Hunter, 44, early Monday but denied that Miss Nelson had tipped him off there were valuables in the studio.

Miss Nelson had attended a party at the Hunter home Saturday night, police said. She was traced by a phone number she gave Hunter.

The studio was robbed of a metal box containing money and jewels. Police said the empty box was found in Pannell's room but he had no money or jewelry in his possession.

Pannell was quoted as saying the loot was taken by an associate he knew only as "Russ."

Miss Nelson came to Detroit from New York City two weeks ago and met Hunter through a mutual artist friend, police said. She was married previously and has a 2-year-old child.

Ceiling For Big 3 Armies Proposed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(AP) —The western big three powers have agreed upon a proposal to set a ceiling of 1½ million men each for the armed forces of the Soviet Union, the United States and China—provided that all three and the United Nations concur.

This proposal is scheduled to be presented to the U. N. disarmament commission. It is the west's answer to Russia's demand for a flat one-third reduction of all armed forces of the big powers.

The proposal was worked out by the United States, Britain and France after weeks of high level consultation. Western sources said they were concerned by the impression made in Europe by the Russian proposal for a one-third cut by the big powers in their armed forces. The proposed ceiling would mean a drastic reduction in Soviet armed forces, according to estimates of the western powers. They have insisted the Soviet Union army alone has four million men.

The United States has about 3,600,000 men under arms in all brancnes of service

Communists Thrown Off Three Hills In U. N. Korean Assaults

A U. S. Eighth Army staff officer said the three units then returned to their lines.

Ten Okinawa-based B-29s last night bombed the rail bridge at Kongunyong in extreme northwest Korea.

New Haven Chief Is Convicted

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(AP)—Police Chief Ray Sturgis of New Haven, Mich., who was unmasked as an Army deserter in the role of respected citizen, was under sentence today to serve 15 years at hard labor.

A court martial board at Ft. Custer last night convicted Sturgis of desertting the Army in 1944 while on leave in Pontiac, Mich., from Camp Young, Calif.

The FBI has never made known how its agents caught up with Sturgis in the little southeastern Michigan village of New Haven (pop. 926) last March 12.

Sturgis went to New Haven in 1946 to make a new life for himself under the name of Russell McIntyre. He won the affection and respect of the villagers as their school bus driver and chief of police of a two-man force.

The courtmartial board of five officers rejected a plea for leniency by defense counsel, First Lt. Joseph Anderson, who claimed Sturgis was "the victim of a faithless wife."

"The power of a woman on a man's life can never be overestimated," the officer declared.

Road Building Bill Passed In House

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a $1,276,200,000 road-building bill.

Passage was by a standing vote of 191 to 30. It came after a motion to send the bill back to committee lost by a standing vote of 149 to 36.

The main fight was over inclusion of funds for continued work on the Rama road in Nicaragua.

The domestic projects contemplate continuance during the fiscal years 1954 and 1955 of the present federal-aid highway program. Under this program, the states match a large part of the money put up by the federal government.

Under the bill Michigan would receive $18,380,000 for each of the next two years.

Racketeers Get Break In Texas

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) says the government has let the late Al (Scarface) Capone and some of his associates get away with not paying more than one million dollars in back taxes.

Williams told the Senate yesterday the average taxpayer would have difficulty accepting the Bureau of Internal Revenue explanation of tax leniency for gangsters.

He quoted treasury officials as saying they had worked out liberal compromises for Capone and others "on the basis that since racketeers keep a substantial part of their assets in the form of hidden cash or invested in legitimate enterprises under fictitious names, it is hard for the government to collect the taxes due."

Williams told the Senate that digging into the tax files he found:

1. The Bureau of Internal Revenue in 1942 let John (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, one time treasurer and collector for the Capone gang in Chicago, settle for $100,000 unpaid income taxes totaling $892,282.79.

2. The bureau in 1942 let Al Capone and others, including Guzik, settle for $30,000 a claim of $119,367 in tax on beer sales.

3. Only after recent tax exposures did the Department of Justice take aggressive action against Capone's brother, Ralph, who is seeking a compromise of tax delinquencies, interest and penalties totaling $92,914.38 over the past 25 years.

British Minister Says Reds Have Million Men In Korea

LONDON — (AP)—Lord Alexander, Britain's defense minister, said today Communist forces in North Korea have been almost doubled since the cease fire talks began last July.

He said the Communist forces now are not far short of one million men compared with just over 500,000 last July. He added that the reinforcements were mostly Chinese.

"The Communist forces have taken full advantage of the lull in the fighting to reinforce, reorganize and re-equip their armies," he told the House of Lords.

Alexander, who said he soon would visit Tokyo and Korea, declared Communist reinforcements mainly have been used to build up North Korean units to full strength.

"At the same time the enemy's strength in armor and artillery has steadily mounted.

"There have been large increases in the numbers of anti-aircraft and and anti-tank guns, heavy mortars and field artillery, and rocket launchers have also made their appearance," he said.

"There has been a marked increase in the size of the enemy air forces which have about 1,800 aircraft compared with some 1,000 aircraft last July.

"About 1,000 of these are jet fighters, most MIG 15s."

As for the possibility of a sudden Communist attack, Alexander said:

"There is no evidence at present of an imminent enemy attack, but with their reinforcements the Communists are now in a position to launch a major offensive with little warning and could maintain the initial pressure of the attacks for some time."

An Answer To Norton Estate Motion Filed

CRYSTAL FALLS — (Special) — The defendants' answer to the plaintiffs' motion for discovery in the John P. Norton estate suit for accounting against Frank J. Lindenthal, George D. Lindenthal and the Delta Broadcasting company was filed in Circuit Court here yesterday, but no decision on the motion was rendered by Judge Glenn Jackson.

In its motion on behalf of the late owner and publisher of the Escanaba Daily Press, who filed the accounting suit against the Lindenthals two months before his death in July, 1950, the estate has requested that defendants produce WDBC business records for examination.

Judge Jackson yesterday informed Wheaton Strom, attorney for the Lindenthals, and James R. Fitzharris, representing the firm of McGinn and Fitzharris, attorneys for James E. Frost, executor of the Norton estate, that he would study the motion and the answer and confer with them later in regard to his decision.

The estate's motion was filed May 9, and a supplement to the motion was filed May 10. The hearing was set for May 13 in Delta County Circuit Court in Escanaba but was postponed to the term here yesterday.

Specific Requests

The current request for examination of WDBC business records constitutes a refiling of a similar motion contained in the suit for accounting. No order was ever entered on the original motion.

The estate asks that the court order "discovery of books, papers, records, accounts, contracts and documents" now in "exclusive possession and control" of Frank and George Lindenthal or their agents so that the estate's case may be properly prepared for trial.

Specifically, the estate seeks court authority to examine papers, documents, check stubs, cancelled checks, journal entries, bank statements, book entries, cancelled notes, receipts and other records concerning purchase of WDBC, the source of moneys used, any agreement between ths defendants and John P. Norton regarding WDBC stock allocation, advance of money b Norton to Frank Lindenthal for purchase of such stock, evidence of indebtedness and of activities of directors of the Delta Broadcosting company since Feb. 20, 1947.

Trial June 25

Other requests embodied in the plaintiffs' motion pertain to the right to examine any written orders and directives from John Norton to Frank or George Lindenthal about the "payment of the salary of George Lindenthal for 1948, 1949 and 1950" by the Escanaba Daily Press while the latter was serving as manager of WDBC; any records relating to expenses incurred by George Lindenthal and paid from WDBC funds for his recent trip to California from Escanaba; the "gray book" used by defendant Frank Lindenthal to make notations when he was in the employ of the Escanaba Daily Press prior to Feb. 21, 1950, and all records and memoranda allegedly taken from the Press by Frank Lindenthal.

The supplement contains a request to see any records pertaining to the alleged gift of a 1941 Chevrolet from Norton to Frank Lindenthal as claimed by the latter in a previously filed document.

Trial in the suit for accounting is set for a special session of Circuit Court in Escanaba June 25.

Martin Cites Need To Cut Federal Spending

"Everyone talks economy but seldom does anything about it," Auditor General John Martin, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, last night told a Republican "coffee hour" group at the Sherman Hotel.

Martin is on campaign tour of the Upper Peninsula and leaves today to return to Lansing. He was introduced here by Henry Wylie, secretary of the Delta County Republican Committee, which arranged the informal program.

Highlighting his talk with a demand for reduction in non-essential federal spending, Martin touched on other aspects of government at state and federal levels in a discussion period.

Less, Not More Taxes

"We need a thorough housecleaning of bribe takers and influence peddlers," Martin said in connection with a question on corruption in Washington. The state, he added, is not confronted with this problem.

"The real problem we face today is to re-arm this country rapidly without going bankrupt in the process," Martin told Escanaba Republicans.

"We know that taxes are too high already. That means that if the job is to be done without more taxes, we are going to have to make economies all along the line," Martin said.

"No" Votes Needed

"I am completely convinced that most federal departments can get along with less money and less personnel if they have to do so. I think we are at a point right now where we are going to have to dispense with some of the services which are nice to have but are not essential. Either that or we shall have to pay more taxes and no one is in a mood to do that," Martin declared.

"The trouble is," Martin pointed out, "that everyone talks economy but seldom does anything about it. Congress has been busy setting up a new program which will provide more expert personnel to handle appropriation requests. This should be very helpful but nothing will be accomplished unless the men who are sent to Washington have the courage to vote 'No' on some of these requests for more funds," Martin said.

"A few people alone can't do the job. We have to have enough men in Washington who don't want to see government eat up the people's substance and who are willing to stand and be counted on this score," Martin concluded.

Jazz Permits Freedom Of Musical Expression, Claims Duke Ellington

Duke Ellington came to town last night on a swing through this part of the country and let go with some of the music that makes him foremost in the field of sophisticated jazz and also with some of his thoughts on the commodity he sells at a high profit.

"All popular music is jazz; the various forms like Dixieland, swing and bop are only different approaches to it," claimed the noted Duke before his appearance here last night at Terrace Gardens.

"Jazz, to me, is the whole field of American music and what is wonderful about it is the freedom of expression it allows the musician. The different forms in music come from the performer's interpretation of jazz."

Once called the "King of Swing," the famous conductor and composer has noticed through the years of his playing for dancing audiences, the changing tastes of the people who come to listen to him. From the time he organized his own orchestra in 1918, listeners' requests showed a movement of musical interest from a Dixieland and Charleston sort of jazz, to swing in the '30s and early '40s, and recently to bop.

"But wherever we play, part of the audience—the enthusiasts of 'pure' jazz of old New Orleans and of our style of it—belongs to us."

The composer of some 50 songs, the former cafe pianist is most noted for such works as "Solitude," "Sophisticated Lady," and "Mood Indigo," all written and played in a jazz idiom peculiarly his own.

Unwilling to classify any two jazz performers in the same category, he calls "great musicians" such present-day artists, all "unlike anybody else in their styles", as Sarah Vaughan, Bing Crosby and Billy Eckstine, and to the late Mildrey Bailey who was also "a great lady".

The first piece he had published was "just a song" titled "Choo Choo". This was in 1923. After that he wrote the music for a show, "Chocolate Kitties" which opened in the Winter Garden in Berlin in 1925. From that time on, he has had a continuous climb to his present place as one of a handful of top jazz interpreters.

He says he is not a Johnny Ray fan.

Boost In Airmail Volume Here Assures Continued Air Service

AIRMAIL originating from the Escanaba postoffice is on the upclimb, indicating that local patrons are beginning to realize the convenience of airmail service and its importance to them.

In April of this year there were 361 pounds of airmail from Escanaba. This is not a terrific figure but it represents a 75% increase from April, 1951 when only 209 pounds of airmail originated in Escanaba. It also represents a substantial increase from the previous month, March 1952, when 234 pounds of airmail moved from here.

Slight increases also have been registered in the volume of air express, 312 pounds in April, 1951 to 375 pounds in April, 1952.

The increased usage of airmail service by local patrons is important because it helps to prove the need for maintaining commercial air service to and from Escanaba.

Airmail service is exceptionally convenient service. A letter mailed in Escanaba before 3 p. m. any day will arrive at its destination anywhere in the United Stotes on the route of a franchised carrier within 24 hours. This means that a letter dispatched airmail special delivery today will be in the hands of its addressee tomorrow, whether the destination is New Orleans, Miami, New York, Los Angeles, Houston, Seattle or intervening points.

A few years from now we will look back on the report of airmail service in April, 1952, and will be astounded that the volume was not greater. But it is important to us now that our airmail volume is showing a steady increase. If it did not increase, our commercial air service would be in greater jeopardy.

What Prompts Acts Of Vandalism?

WHAT prompts youngsters to acts of prankish vandalism?

A week ago youngsters smashed a number of windows at the U. P. State Fairgrounds. Last week a malicious lot of kids caused considerable damage to a number of awnings at local business places.

From all appearances the prankish acts were not motivated by any desire for revenge. The youngsters simply saw an opportunity to destroy some property without being caught in the process and they proceeded accordingly.

In years past there have been periodic depradations against the public schools, particularly the windows at the Junior High School and the nearby Washington School.

These acts of vandalism, whatever their motive, cost the property owners a lot of money and usually considerable inconvenience.

It would be well if parents would emphasize to their youngsters that acts of vandalism indicate criminal tendencies. Youngsters who "get away" with vandalism may well be started on a career of crime that can only produce unhappiness.

Arch Nearbrite has rejoined our debate group at the store. He was scared blue when he spent an evening with some others who meet at the undertaker's. Arch lost his balance while delivering a violent argument and fell into an open casket that was setting on the floor.

Red Blackmail Robs Humanity Of Decency

A new United Nations survey of world economic and social conditions indirectly serves to measure the magnitude of communism's crime against men of this age.

While the survey found that a third of the globe's total population was making significant strides toward higher living standards, it concluded that the other two-thirds is fighting a losing battle against hunger, poor housing, ignorance and general poverty.

Communism, if you recall the advertisements from the Kremlin and assorted branch offices, is supposed to be a cure for all the ailments of modern-day humanity. Communism is supposed to be the people's friend.

No one would pretend that if there were no Moscow-directed communism all the ills of the world would thereby be solved and upwards of two billion people would be enjoying a high standard of living.

Yet it is a dismal fact that the United States and many other free nations are pouring billions of dollars annually into armaments, using up steel and other substances and commandeering the skills of millions of men. All these materials and all these talents could obviously be put to far better purpose improving the lot of Americans, of Europeans, indeed, of all mankind.

We and the rest of the West are not in the category marked by the UN as fighting a losing battle with poverty. But our technical knowledge, our machinery, our chemicals and fertilizers and other materials could be at work right now on a considerable scale combatting the handicaps of the unfortunate two-thirds.

The UN discovered there is today 6 per cent less food in the world than before World War II, even though there are millions more mouths to feed. Supplies have declined most sharply in areas where they are most needed—as in the Far East. If you could ask the Chinese under Communist rule, what would they say of the blessings brought by "benevolent" communism?

The housing problem is universal, but it is naturally much worse in under-developed regions. In these, an estimated 150 million families need new homes; in more advanced areas, the figure is 30 million. A study of 17 European nations showed that if pre-war construction rates were doubled, it would take an average of 22 years to meet housing needs. Yet nowhere are such building rates possible.

That they are not is due in great part to communism. Our prime task today is not to advance ourselves and the world along the road of human betterment, but to prevent the gains we have already made from being destroyed. We must defend ourselves against a program of conquest which masquerades as a revolution of the people.

Even in backward countries, progress will be made in time despite the Kremlin's menace. But how much more could be done if we were free to focus our energies on building for peace instead of for possible war.

Every tank built by the free nations, every gun, every plane is an evidence that the Russians are blackmailing humanity, sucking out substance that should be thrown into the fight for the uplifting of men's lives. To offer this blackmail as the solvent for human ills is to perpetuate the greatest fraud in history.

Night-Blindness Aided by Treatment, Raises Blood's Vitamin A Content

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A condition in which a person is unable to see well in dim light usually goes under the name of night-blindness.

Q—Please discuss night-blindness and what causes it. Are large doses of vitamin A of any merit? — R. B.

A—It is known that night-blindness in many or all cases is closely associated with vitamin A in the body. For example, it is common in diabetes, probably because the body loses its ability to prepare vitamin A. It is also related to other conditions in which the vitamin A content of the blood is lowered. For this reason, many people with night-blindness are improved by being given vitamin A, and of course, by treatment of diabetes or any other condition which may be found to be responsible.

* * *

Q—Please elaborate on a discussion of Hirschsprung's disease. What are its causes and treatment?—Mrs. F. P. G.

A—This is a condition in which the lower bowel is greatly enlarged at birth. A child with this condition is usually stunted in growth, and the abdomen becomes enormous; sometimes months elapse between bowel movements. Numerous enemas or laxatives may be used in treatment, but in recent years various surgical procedures have come into favor.

* * *

Q—When my husband is sick, the doctor always tells him to drink ginger ale. Someone told me he must have a cancer as cancer patients are always told to do this.—Reader.

A—This is certainly not true, since many people without any sign of cancer do drink ginger ale.

* * *

Q—I have a lump inside my cheek which I was told is a stone in the gland, and the doctor said it was the same as a stone in the kidney or bladder. I have never heard of such a thing.—L. I. L.

A—It is perfectly true that stones similar to kidney or bladder stones can form in the salivary glands.

Q—What is your opinion as to the effectiveness of glutamic acid for the backward child?—Mrs. D. B.

A—There have been a few technical reports which indicate that the use of glutamic acid may be able to improve the intelligence to some extent. This work, however, is in the stage of what is called experimentation, and cannot certainly as yet be recommended for general use.

Q—My young son was recently hit in one eye with a rock. The doctor says the retina was torn. Is there any type of operation?—Mrs. M. T. M.

A—There is an operation for detachment of the retina, and the question as to whether it should be done on this young boy should be taken up with an expert at the earliest possible moment.

Q—There is a lady in our town who some 30 years ago had syphilis, and as a result lost the sight of one eye. This lady now comes to my house and eats off my dishes and uses my bathroom. Are the members of my family in any danger?—E. N. W.

A—No, syphilis is not spread in this way.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—President Truman was both jovial and paternalistic when he received a California delegation led by Attorney General Pat Brown who came on the forlorn hope of changing his mind on tidelands oil.

"You heard my speech," the President remarked, half humorously. "How can you expect me to change my mind after that?"

Brown reminded him that Californians had come to talk to him in 1948 at which time he had refused to take a stand because tidelands oil was then before the Supreme Court.

"Yes, and the Supreme Court has now decided in favor of the 48 states," Mr. Truman interrupted.

However, he agreed to study a memo that the California lawyers promised to prepare for him, though, as an indication that it probably wouldn't change his mind, he told the following story:

"It reminds me of an old judge out in Missouri," he said. "He told the court: 'Bring the man in. We'll give him a fair trial and then hang him.'"

The President also enjoyed talking to Brown, who is running against Sen. Estes Kefauver in California, about the various presidential candidates. Regarding Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, he said: "If he were right on civil rights, he might be the ablest of all."

Averell Harriman he described as "a wonderful man—but imagine a Wall Street banker being elected President!"

TAFT'S SOCIALISM

Sen. Bob Taft, author of the Taft housing act of which he is quite proud, would not be flattered if he read a letter written by the Los Angeles real estate lobby calling his act "socialistic."

Of course "socialistic" is an easy epithet to hurl these days, and Senator Taft has used it himself at times. However, this column has just unearthed an unusual letter written by the Los Angeles lobby in its effort to defeat a slum clearance - housing program in Los Angeles, to be built under Taft's housing law.

The letter puts the bite on the Los Angeles Clearing House Association, Ben Meyer, chairman, to the tune of $15,000 as part of an $185,000 slush fund the real estate lobby is raising to defeat Los Angeles housing.

Real estate and housing groups all over the nation are watching the Los Angeles battle, where the city government has already signed a contract with the federal government to proceed with the housing program, when suddenly two city councilmen mysteriously changed their minds.

After that the California Supreme Court ruled that the city must continue with its housing contract, regardless of the two councilumen. But the real estate lobby is continuing the battle just the same.

In case Senator Taft is interested in what the Los Angeles realtors think of his "socialism," here is their letter signed by "George M. Eason, finance chairman, committee against socialistic housing":

"Mr. Ben Meyer
"Chairman,
"Los Angeles Clearing House Association
"Los Angeles, California
"Dear Mr. Meyer:

"You are familiar with the fight now going on at the city hall regarding public housing.

'This matter will be on the ballot in the election of June 3.

"The various organizations interested in financing and building of homes in Los Angeles have formed the committee against socialist housing. We anticipate that it will take a fund of $185,000, to put on the campaign. Many organizations have already pledged the amount that they will raise through their membership.

"In the campaign on proposition 10, the Clearing House Association subscribed $7,500. The cost of the campaign was $94,000. We therefore are asking the Clearing House Association to subscribe $15,000 towards this campaign.

"The public housers have started their campaign and are now holding meetings in various parts of Los Angeles. We anticipate that they will have unlimited funds at their disposal.

"We will appreciate any assistance that you can give us in this matter."

Line Of Ash Trays Divides Peace Parley Delegates At Panmunjom

Oswald Jacoby, bridge and canasta expert, as Commander Jacoby, USNR, has just returned from Korea where he served for eight months on the staff of UN peace delegation, mostly in connection with prisoner-of-war negotiations. Now on inactive status he tells for the first time the behind-the-scenes details in the truce tent at Panmunjom. This is the last of two articles.

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Seldom in recent history have such momentous proceedings as the Korean peace talks been held in such humble surroundings.

They're even short of ash trays. As a result, the Red delegates and those from the United Nations are always having to share the same ones.

They do it gingerly, though, as if they're afraid they'll accidentally touch fingers. And I never saw a man on one side give a man on the other side a cigarette.

The shortage of ash trays is symbolic of the surprisingly plain surroundings at the Panmunjom meetings, from which I have just returned after 16 months in Japan and Korea on duty with the U. S. Navy.

The top-level meetings, called plenary sessions, are held in a big old American Army tent in a field in the middle of the neutral meeting zone.

* * *

The long table in the middle of the tent is like nothing you ever saw in a board of directors room. Actually, it is made of a lot of little tables like you'd see in an infantry outfit's orderly room. Naked light bulbs hang at odd intervals from the top of the ten. The chairs are simple, straight-backed affairs, and very uncomfortable. I know.

The plenary sessions get underway at 11 a. m. And that doesn't mean 10:59 or 11:01. Military people are very prompt.

Shortly before 11, the staffs, numbering from 15 to 20 on each side, enter the tent and take their places at rear or side tables. The two delegations try to come in at 11 sharp, through their own separate entrances. But since our watches and the enemy watches are not synchronized, our delegation may go in slightly ahead of the other.

Our delegation is headed by Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, and the enemy's by General Nam Il, of the North Korean People's Army.

* * *

There takes place now an interesting bit of procedure. No enemy delegate ever walks over to our side of the tent, and we never cross to their side. The big table is in the exact middle of the tent and each delegation always sits on its own same side.

One would think there was a line drawn right through the middle of the tent, which they could not cross. Which is just what there is. It's not a big white line like you'd see on a football field. There's not even any line that you can see. But it's there, nevertheless. It's the boundary line which crosses through the entire middle of the neutral zone and which separates us from them.

The opposing staffs, which are actually expert advisers to their respective delegations, are already seated in the tent when the delegations walk in.

* * *

When the UN delegation enters, the UN staff respectfully rises. When the enemy delegation walks in, the enemy staff rises. Neither staff stands for the opposing delegation.

When the two delegations are seated across the big table from each other, either Adm. Joy or Gen. Nam will say something like, "Let's get going."

As the endless haggling gets underway, four low-ranking but very important people go into action. Without them, in fact, there could be no truce talks.

They are the interpreters, two to each side. Everything Adm. Joy says (he's the only member of the UN delegation who addresses the enemy) is translated to the enemy delegation by our two enterpreters, one speaking Chinese and the other Korean. Their interpreters translate what Gen. Nam says into English and Chinese. The latter is necessary for the benefit of the Chinese members of their delegation.

Gen. Nam used to get pretty sore at one of his interpreters sometimes. But he never fired him. The fellow always turned up the next day.

* * *

At the plenary sessions everyone is usually pretty polite. Both the enemy and our side have made a sincere effort to conduct things properly.

But at some of the sub-delegation meeting which are frequently held, their boys get a little sharp - tongued sometimes. When one of us got insulted at one of these meetings we were very proud of it — under these circumstances we liked to be disliked.

My work was mostly with figures, and one time an enemy sub-delegation member referred to me as "the incompetent accountant," with an amusing strong accent on the third syllable. I was very pleased with myself and the envy of my friends.

* * *

Punctuality being of historic virtue with the military, our side has set up an elaborate transportation schedule for getting our people to Panmunjom on time from our living quarters 16 miles away in Munsan.

There is a staff meeting at Munsan at 8 a. m. to have a final discussian o fthe day's strategy. At about 8:05 the transportation officer comes in, tells everyone the official time (so we can synchronize our watches) and gives everyone who is going to the meeting a card telling him when he will leave and by what means.

Our top ranking people go by helicopter when the weather is good enough. Otherwise everyone goes by jeep or sedan, and then we have quite a little convoy. I can't help wondering what would happen to that poor transportation officer if he got everybody to the meeting an hour late some time.

So They Say

Certainly the time has come for a moral revival which will restore to our people a confidence in the integrity of government and in the principles of their leaders. —Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio).

* * *

The (military) girls over here (in America) seem more feminine, probably because of the nice uniforms and the stress put on appearance.—British squadron officer Joyce Borlase.

* * *

Even with the atomic bomb, in my opinion it still will be necessary that we retain the individual riflemen to seize and occupy enemy-held terrtory.—Marine Brig.-Gen. Joseph C. Burger.

ON THE DIVIDING LINE, ASH TRAYS: Here's how it looks inside the truce tent at Panmunjom, Korea, as delegations meet. Imaginary boundary line runs through middle of tent, about through the nearest and furthest ash trays in this picture, taken during a session of ground rules sub-delegation.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

MURDER IN THE NIGHT—Many pleasantly hopeful reports have been issued concerning the success of the state's work program for prisoners.

The work outdoors in state parks and on other state property puts a shine in the eye and a spring in the step of the inmate. He becomes sun tanned, healthy, hopeful, and rehabilitated.

One of these rehabilitation cases recently fled the work camp at Porcupine Mountain State Park, broke and entered a shop at Silver City near the park, drove away a car, and later that night murdered a woman attendant at an auto service station.

Such goings-on reveal a very uncooperative spirit on the part of the prison work camp inmate, who was recaptured and is probably now repenting his sins behind the bleak stone walls of State Branch Prison at Marquette.

* * *

SUCCESSFUL PROGRAM — Michigan was among the first states to establish prison work camps. The results have been acclaimed as satisfactory, although a number of trusties have escaped and thousands of dollars have been spent in the recapture of the escaped convicts.

An evaluation of the program cannot ignore the latest escape at the Ontonagon work camp and the murder of the woman at the gas station. Balanced against this is the reported successful rehabilitation of a number of men.

Despite the favorable reports, the murder has frightened those who must live in proximity to the convicts selected to work in the camps. Their uneasiness is understandable. If careful screening failed to reveal the homicidal tendencies of the prisoner—how many more are being given liberties beyond those usually accorded a convict?

* * *

DEBT TO SOCIETY—The family of the murdered woman might take what small comfort they can from the realization that the woman was the unfortunate victim of progress.

In Michigan there is no death penalty for murder. Yet in the murder of the woman, innocent victim of an escaped prisoner who had been selected by prison officials for work camp experience, the death penalty was inflicted without benefit of judge or jury.

She died not for any criminal act of her own but because the state through an experimental rehabilitation program created conditions by which a convicted criminal could escape—and kill.

Under law the sentence imposed upon a criminal is considered punishment by which the criminal pays his debts to the society he has wronged. Yet the woman who died was blameless of any crime—and paid a penalty so extreme the state does not impose it even upon the most hardened criminal.

* * *

WHERE IS THE FAULT? — In work camp the prisoners are placed upon their honor to join in the program designed to bring them healthier bodies and a healthier outlook toward society.

They are paid a wage, small though it is, for the work they do. They have privileges not accorded inmates in prison. There is little if any restraint imposed and guards are inadequate to prevent escape under such conditions.

If the state had not established the work camp at Porcupine Mountain State Park near Ontonagon, if the young man had not been approved by state prison officials for release to the camp, the woman would not have been bludgeoned to death by the escaped trustie.

The fault is that of the state in not adequately protecting its citizens from attack by convicted criminals who have, under law, been sentenced to prison.

* * *

JUSTICE AND INJUSTICE—Until the state is prepared through adequate screening to assure Michigan citizens that only cooperative and harmless prisoners are to be released to work camps, the people should call upon the state to discontinue its dangerous "experiment."

To argue that the benefits of the work camp program are of greater value than the safety of its citizens is to overlook the entire process of criminal law, which is established to protect society.

But the woman is dead and nothing in the law will bring her to life again. She was brutally slain by a man duly convicted under the law and sentenced to prison. That he will now return to prison with the possibility of parole at a later date only heightens the feeling of injustice.

Artist Wins Acclaim For 'Luminous Hands'

HARD AT WORK on a new painting, Desiree Halle has an avid audience in Henriette Guillot, an 87-year-old Paris friend.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS— (NEA)—For 82-year-old Desiree Halle— the "cripple with the luminous hands" — life has lost a lot of its grimness.

Since she was a child, Desiree has found her greatest enjoyment in painting, although both her hands have been paralyzed for the past 67 years. And now, in the twilight of her life, her work has finally achieved recognition.

International art connoisseurs and critics recently were invited to an exhibition of her canvases by a Left Bank gallery and found much to rave about. And the Ministry of Fine Arts has arranged to provide her with her own little studio and materials.

The recognition began when an art collector named Romi discovered a batch of oils and water colors signed "D. Halle" during his weekly visit to the Flea Market.

• • •

Romi thought the works unusually attractive and immediately commissioned his scouts to round up more, if they existed, and also to locate the artist. After weeks of searching, they finally found her at a home for old people near Paris. She had been living there since her money gave out two years ago.

Gradually, Romi learned her story.

Unlike the famed Grandma Moses, Desiree had not waited to a ripe old age to express herself on canvas. Even before a malady which baffled physicians of the day left her hands virtually lifeless at the age of 14, she had shown a great interest and talent in her school drawing classes. And, afterward, she would not give up, but continued her painting doggedly.

"It took me three years to learn to hold a brush between my palms," she recalled, "but I was determined to conquer and I succeeded."

Her parents bought her paints and canvases on the theory "it keeps her alive and busy." But they never conceded that she might have talent. When her father died, Desiree's mother took care of her. After her mother died in 1931, an old friend of the family took over.

But when post-war living costs went sky-high, the two elderly ladies found their old-age pensions inadequate. Desiree resigned herself to applying for admission to the state old people's home, where Romi located her.

"Before doing that," she chuckled, "I called in a second-hand dealer to get rid of what remained of the family furniture, plus all the accumulated 'rubbish,' which was how my family considered my paintings. He gave me $40 for the lot."

Of the hundreds of works which the junk man carted away, only about 100 have been traced. Even so, they present a comprehensive record of life during the first half of the century, as seen through the naive and sensitive eyes of a girl condemned to lead a sheltered and abnormal life.

The majority are scenes that Desiree knew first hand—beautiful ladies of the Naughty Nineties, family portraits and still lifes, landscapes, and the local introduction of new inventions, such as the automobile, camera and airplane. But many others, like a scene from the War of 1812, are entirely a product of her far-reaching imagination.

Their discovery by Romi, who gave her the "cripple with the luminous hands" label, have brought Desiree fame. But even more important to her is the fact that she now has her own little room to paint in at the home and all the necessary materials.

Jap Youths All Flunk Tests For Marriage

TOKYO — (AP)—The women's youth corps of Higashi village on northern Honshu Island yesterday set up a groom qualification test.

Fifty youths, all in their 20s, were put through a physical test including marathon run, rice bag carrying race, chinning the bar and ploughing. Then they faced a panel of women who tested them on intelligence.

All 50 flunked. The women proclaimed them unfit for marriage.

P. S.: The men today were devising tests for the maidens.

Expert Advises Ridding Coop Of Non-Laying Hens

EAST LANSING—At present egg prices, farmers can't afford to pay room and board for loafing hens. So William Aho, Michigan State College poultry specialist, today advised a culling job to help bolster sagging profits.

Aho said that bleaching in yellow-skinned hens is a good sign of how long they've been laying —however, it works only for the first six months of laying.

He explained that pigment from yellow corn and green feeds ends up in the fat of a young chicken's skin. When laying begins, the pigment goes directly to color the yolk. So long as "Biddy" keeps laying, her skin keeps on losing its yellow color until it is completely bleached.

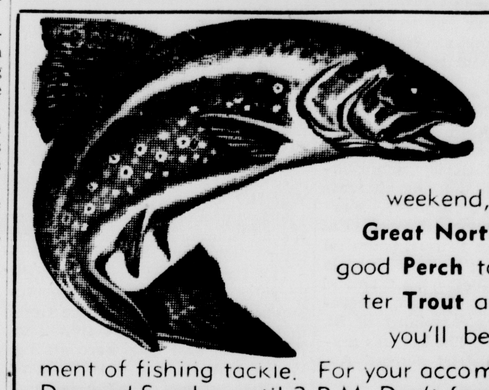

"You can estimate how long a bird has been laying by the color pattern," Aho pointed out. The yellow color leaves the bent seven to 10 days after a hen starts laying, the eye ring after two weeks, the earlobes in three weeks, the beak in six weeks, front of the shanks in 18 weeks and heel of the shanks in 20 to 24 weeks. The yellow color leaves the backs of the hocks and tops of the toes last.

When laying stops, the color returns to various parts of the hen's skin in the same order in which it bleached—but much faster. If color is coming back, it means that the hen is loafing on the job and she is being fed with no return.

Republic Begun On 2000 Islands

By HAROLD K. MILKS

COLOMBO, Ceylon—(AP)—The world's newest and one of its smallest republics—the Maldive Islands—has just blossomed in the Indian Ocean 400 miles southwest of Ceylon.

Inhabitants of the 2,000 tiny islands, scattered over 325 square miles of ocean, voted 99 per cent to become a republic with an elected president after more than 800 years as a sultanate. For the past century it has been under British protecttion.

The first president is 41-year-old Prime Minister Amin Didi, island strong man who will functtion as a virtually one-man government. The transition from sultanate to republic will be completed some time in December, when the Maldives adopt a new constitution—now being written by Amid Didi—and seats him as its first president.

The British government will continue to handle Maldivian foreign affairs. It has promised to send a cruiser and its high commiissioner in Ceylon to the inauguration at Mave, the Maldive captal.

Creation of the republic of more than 93,000 islanders followed the death in Ceylon two months ago of 78-year-old Amir Abdul Majid, last of the Maldive sultans.

Hollywood Socialite Found Dead In Alley

LOS ANGELLES — (AP) — Police today tried to trace the recent movements of an attractive 34-year-old Hollywood socialite who was found dead in an alley, victim of an abortion.

Autopsy surgeon Victor Cefalu said the illegal operation on Patricia Steel was performed either Sunday or Monday.

The woman's father, financier Victor H. Steele, said she returned a month ago from a three-month stay in Hawaii. His daughter had been restless, traveling much of the time since the death of her fiance, a marine lieutenant, in the wartime invasion of the Marshall Islands, Steele said.

Watchman Is Thief

GRAND RAPIDS— (AP) —Jack Green, 59, a nightwatchman, was arrested Tuesday and accused of looting the store he guarded of $3,000 in merchandise during the past year. Detectives said they nabbed Green as he placed a package in his car between his rounds as watchman. They said he admitted taking clothing, household articles and jewelry in similar fashion.

Picking Up Scrap

DETROIT — (AP)—Charles W. Robisin, 35, was accused Tuesday of stealing three manhole covers. Police quoted him as saying he planned to sell the covers for scrap at 1 cent a pound.

Why Soft-Pedal Lindbergh's Work, Congressmen Ask

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two Illinois congressmen want the House to investigate why Charles A. Lindbergh's services to the government have not been more widely publicized.

Reps. Richard W. Hoffman and Richard B. Vail—both Republicans—said a conspiracy on silence hides the famous flyer's deeds. In a joint statement they said the Roosevelt administration "tarnished" Lindbergh's reputation because the flyer opposed the late president's attitude toward World War II.

They proposed creation of a special House committee to inquire into:

(1) Confidential reports Lindbergh made to the government before World War II on the German air force; (2) His activities in the Pacific and elsewhere during World War II; and (3) His confidential surveys of air bases and other activities in the interest of national defense after World War II.

Admission Of 50¢ Charged For Auction At Scene Of Murder

MUSKEGON, Mich.—(AP)—Curiosity seekers will have to pay 50 cents to attend an auction today at the scene of an unsolved murder here.

The auction will be held at the Kay-Lin Antique Shop where the owner, Lillian Kayer, a 55-year-old divorcee, was clubbed to death March 29.

Administrators of the estate set the 50 cents admission fee because of the limited capacity of the store. They hope to discourage thrill seekers. The admission charges will go to the estate.

The stylish divorcee had operated the antique shop in a district of taverns and next door to a rescue mission for several years.

Her body was found in the basement of the shop shortly after she was last seen talking to a man in a long, dark overcoat.

Robbery was believed the motive of the slaying. The woman's ring finger was almost torn off by her assailant.

New Orleans Daily Accused Of Injuring Competition Paper

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—The Times-Picayune Publishing Company planned to appeal to the U. S. supreme court from a decision that it had violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

U. S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry, in his decision, held that the violation came through the company's requirement that advertisers buy space in both the Morning Times-Picayune and the afternoon New Orleans States.

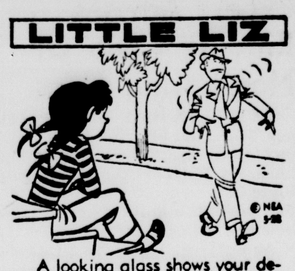

Application of the forced rates, Judge Christenberry ruled, injured the New Orleans Item, an afternoon newspaper. The forced combination rates are used by more than 170 morning and afternoon newspapers under joint ownership in the United States.

The government filed the suit in June, 1950, the first in civil anti-trust history where one daily newspaper organization was accused of hurting another competing daily paper.

O. B. Mason, former assistant manager of the Escanaba Paper Company, has been appointed Chillicothe, Ohio, division manager of the Mead Corporation, it has been announced. He succeeds Howard E. Teter, who has been appointed production manager for Mead's white paper operations.

Mr. Mason has been assistant to the executive vice president of the Mead Corporation at Chillicothe since 1949. He was in Escanaba from 1946 to 1949. He is a past president of the Escanaba Rotary Club.

Postal Department Runs Out Of Money For June 2 Payday

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Post Office Department said today it has run out of money to pay about 400,000 postal workers scattered throughout the country.

It hopes to get the money from Congress soon but meantime has notified postmasters to withhold salary payments to themselves and all field personnel for work done after May 15. Pay day for most of them is next Monday.

The department ran out of money because Congress last October increased salaries of all postal employes but provided no funds to pay the increases.

The money needed is in a supplemental appropriation bill to various government agencies now tied up in Congress due to differences between House and Senate versions. Until this bill is finally passed, postal employees in the field service will get no more pay.

Grand Rapids Makes $250,000 On Parking

GRAND RAPIDS—(AP) —Parking, an ever-increasing source of revenue, may add $250,000 to the city's gross receipts for a 12-month period ending Sept. 1.

This was indicated today in an eight month report from the city auditor's office. The city-owned parking ramp went into operation last September.

The parking ramp has brought in $49,700 so far. Meter collections have totaled $103,000 for the period. And rentals from two city-owned parking lots have added more than $14,000 for a total of more than $167,000.

Barring an unexpected decline in the next four months the total may well hit the $250,000 figure for a full year, officials predicted. No estimate was available on net profit after expenses.

Wall Street

By RICHARD FISKE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Railroad issues gained fractions to as much as three points today as the Stock Market held to a steady course.

Activity was a little better than yesterday but was still at a slow pace.

The rails far outshone the rest of the market. But their performance loaned strength to other groups and kept the general trend one of steadiness.

Atlantic Coast Line, which advanced 5⅞ yesterday, continued its gaining tendencies today. It backed away a bit from its best price of the day around the midway mark but still was up around a point at times.

Seaboard Air Lines was ahead around three points at one time and Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Railway and Union Pacific were up fractions.

There were several optimistic forecasts for the railroads, including one by Gustav Metzman, New York Central president, at his stockholders meetings in Albany, N. Y.

Among the advances were Republic Steel, Goodrich Rubber, Caterpillar, Commonwealth Edison, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical and American Telephone, Kennecott Copper, Mc Intyre, Allied Chemical and Philip Morris.

Taft Now Leads Gen. Eisenhower By 22 Delegates

Loyal Democrats bolted the Democratic convention to name their own 52-vote delegation. The convention, guided firmly by Gov. Allan Shivers, named an uninstructed delegation.

Shivers, a bitter critic of the Truman administration, favors Russell. Of the walk-out group, many like Kefauver and others favor House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Taft, just back from a campaign in South Dakota, told a reporter in Washington the seating of disputed southern delegations will be up to the national convention.

"I think a fair decision will be made," he added.

Iowa Democrats and Alabama Republicans were naming convention delegates today — 24 in Iowa and four in Alabama.

Fireman At Ottawa Sets His Own Blazes

OTTAWA—(AP)—Police last night arrested a city fireman they said really loved his work. They charged him with arson.

The man, Frank Eric Thompson, 27, a member of the Ottawa fire department for more than three years, was accused of starting blazes within 30 minutes in two small hotels three blocks apart.

A waiter spotted the first, in the Victoria Hotel, and it was put out without serious damage. The second, in the LaSalle Hotel, caused a $90,000 loss.

Thompson, in civilian clothes, rushed into the burning LaSalle to aid his fellow firemen and was one of several overcome by smoke. Police became suspicious of his actions before the fire and, after investigating, picked him up.

1,200 Escanabans Told They Must Register To Vote

Because they have failed to vote within the past two years, 1,200 Escanaba citizens are being advised through the office of City Clerk George Harvey that their voting registration has been suspended.

The notices of suspension of registration are being mailed to the citizens in accordance with the law. The notices have a post card return on which the citizen may notify the clerk that he wishes to reregister.

Unless the clerk's office is advised within 30 days of the desire to reregister, the individual's name will be removed from the registration list.

Staid British TV Lets French Girls Appear Without Bras

LONDON—(AP)—The staid British Broadcasting Corporation agreed today to let French showgirls be televised without their bras—only if the act originates in Paris where such things are customary.

Last year the French girls were imported to London for a TV show and shocked BBC officials sent out a hurried call for a batch of bosom covers.

A Paris show scheduled to be relayed to Britain in July brought the problem again. BBC said this time it didn't want to bust up the show. Semi-nude showgirls are okay in Paris and BBC wants to retain the true Parisian atmosphere.

One small precaution will be taken, however. BBC will send along its own camera crews to select the angles from which the girls will be televised.

more guards for three prisons, instead of the $1,273,391 for 161 additional guards which Williams sought. It also adds $250,000 from the state fire fund to $150,000 already released to repair the prison laundry and several small items.

More Beds For Ionia

Estimating the fire and riot damage at $1,091,000, Williams has asked $678,299.

The grant allows the big prison 16 men for a special riot squad and 12 additional guards, Marquette branch prison would get four more guards and Ionia reformatory five more.

The Senate also voted $80,000 to plan a 200-bed, $2,000,000 building at the Ionia Hospital for the criminal insane to house insane convicts from the prisons.

Three members on the Senate judiciary committee, as yet unnamed, were designated to study the state's indeterminate sentence law which some investigators have contended contributed to the prison riot.

In other votes the Senate approved allowing the White Pine Mining Company to engage one workmen's compensation insurance carrier for 1,200 employes expected to be hired by 50 to 60 subcontractors in the huge Ontonagon County copper ore development project. The law now requires each contractor and subcontractor to engage his own carrier.

The Senate voted power to the state public service commission to pass on to customers of Michigan Consolidated Gas Company any rebates it receives if the federal power commission cuts the price of gas received by Consolidated from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company.

To make it possible for county tuberculosis sanatoria to qualify for state building grants without adding new bed space, the Senate voted to qualify institutions which would merely improve other facilities.

Compost Pile Needed As Source Of Humus

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There comes a time in ever gardener's life when his thoughts turn to the business of providing humus for his soil—the decomposed organic material which provides food for plants and improved the texture of the soil.

Almost all soils need extra humus, and when the gardener is entirely dependent upon store-bought chemical fertilizers and specially packaged preparations, it becomes pretty expensive.

Construction of a compost pile—or piles—is the answer to this problem. There are few plots of ground too small to provide space for one. A compost pile, in addition, is a solution to a problem often encountered in built-up neighborhoods of how to dispose of garden debris—grass clippings, leaves and light prunings. Burning the debris after drying is an unsatisfactory solution because of the obvious waste involved.

LOOK for a hidden corner for a compost heap.

Accumulating Compost

There are several methods of accumulating compost: in pits, in binds and in piles. Most amateurs find a pile easiest to manage. There is no "best time" to start composting activities. Once started, materials can be added to the pile throughout the growing season.

The first step is to select an unobstrusive, shaded spot close to a water supply. Some gardeners string sturdy wire around the designated area—a space 4 by 8 feet may be sufficient—for ease of controlling the growing pile. Others find a hollow square of concrete bricks a satisfactory method of containing the pile.

How to Start

It is best started by putting down a 2-inch layer of rich compost, well-fertilized top-soil or manure. The latter is best if available.

On top of this comes grass clippings, fallen leaves, discarded annual and perennial plants and even such material as pea pods, celery tops and other inoffensive material from the kitchen. The only material which should be excluded are woody materials, stems and sticks which take a long time to disintegrate.

When this layer is 5 or 6 inches deep when tramped and watered down, sprinkle it with a commercial fertilizer — a quarter of a pound per square yard is sufficient—and about 3 ounces of agricultural lime, followed by a thorough watering if the material is dry. Then cover the whole with a thin layer of top soil, not more than a half inch in depth.

Keep building in this sequence until the pile stands 4 or 5 feet high. Its sides should slope to the center slightly, and there should be always a rain-catching hollow at the top.

A number of materials, including bone meal and manure, may be substituted for commercial fertilizer. The idea is to get nitrogen and phosphorus into the mixture.

Compost Needs Turning

After a few weeks, when the inside of the pile should be about half decomposed, the pile should be turned so that the outside goes inside and has a chance to be processed. When the pile has been broken up by weather and bacteria action so that it is almost black and none of the original forms of the material are left, it is humus, and ready for use in the ground or as top dressing.

The most practical gardeners will have three compost piles. None has to be large. One of the piles will be in construction and sort of a handy waste basket for garden and kitchen waste as it turns up. Another will be finished and decomposing. The third will be on tap for garden use.

Kitchen Waste Usable

Incidentally, desirable compost material includes other kitchen waste, such as fish heads and banana skins. These are wonderful when the compost heap is on a farm or located on large grounds.

For the small home owner, however, they are apt to be troublesome—particularly when the wind is right. Such additions also are apt to attract the neighborhood pet population as well as rats.

The most recent thinking is that even diseased plant material may be safely used for composting because internal heat of the pile builds up sufficiently to destroy pests, fungi and other undesirable pests.

State Police Warn Of Traffic Slaughter Over Coming Holiday

LANSING — (AP)—The state police warned today that Memorial Day weekend will start the summer traffic slaughter in Michigan.

Commissioner Joseph M. Childs predicted 20 to 25 highway fatalities each weekend until Labor Day unless greater driving care is exercised by motorists. He said traffic hazards will be increased by an expected record seven billion miles of travel in Michigan roads this summer.

Only 16 persons were killed in Memorial Day traffic last year, but that holiday fell in the middle of the week. The Memorial Day record toll was 58 deaths in 1941.

Childs said this year traffic is expected to be heavy from Thursday noon until Monday morning.

Atom Sub Interests Oldtime Pig Boatman

LONG BEACH, Calif.—(AP)—An old "pig boat" man, who served on the first U. S. submarine, is angling for a ride as passenger when the first atom-powered sub is tested.

He is Edward J. Krec, 64, who says he was a crewman aboard the USS Holland in 1907. In those days, says Krec, there was no escape hatch, periscope or compartmented hull—only a torpedo and a dynamite gun.

Krec says an old shipmate, Capt. H. G. Rickover, USN, is in charge of constructing the atom submarine.

Nepal's Fierce Fighters Are Nation's Big Export

GURKHA WARRIORS of Nepal love to fight.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

KHATMANDU, Nepal— Some nations export coal. Others send abroad their foods, automobiles, or steel. But tiny Nepal's top export is still fighting men.

Sturdy Gurkha warriors —long famed for their skill at close-in warfare—flow out of Nepal steadily. And the money they earn flows back into this Himalayan kingdom to provide its greatest asset.

Today there are more than 30,000 Gurkha fighting men wearing uniforms of Britain and India —eight full battalions serving with the British forces, 24 in the Indian army.

Until some substitute means of livelihood is provided, the Nepalese government has dropped all thought of curbing the supply of replacements for these units.

The Gurkhas themselves, largely recruited from two main tribes in Central and Eastern Nepal, are cool to the idea that they should end their "foreign legion." Service abroad, they point out, means good equipment, good training for the fighting they admittedly love, and allotments or pensions to their families.

Tough Nepalese Gurkhas have been the backbone of British, and British-Indian defenses for many decades. Gurkha regiments count their battle honors by the score, and have performed brilliantly in World War I. World War II, and the Asian conflicts which preceded them.

Favorite weapon of the Gurkha warrior—even in this automic age—is the kukri, a 15-inch broad-bladed fighting knife—half dagger, half meat-cleaver. With it the average Gurkha can lop off the heads of his enemies, dismember the carcass of a buffalo for food, or chop his wood for a cooking fire.

Every Gurkha soldier wears a leather-sheathed kukri both as a badge of his service and his handiest fighting tool.

Bark River Plans For July 4 and Park Dedication

BARK RIVER—The Bark River Lions' Club at its bi-monthly meeting formulated plans for the club's Fourth of July celebration. Russell A. Simmons was appointed general chairman by Leslie Sundquist, president of the club.

Guests at the meeting were Joe Pomagelak of Wilson and Edward Meyers of Schaffer, president and secretary of the Pulaski Club.

The celebration will be a dual occasion for the community as plans were made to hold official dedication of Pulaski Park the afternoon of July 4.

The Pulaski Club has purchased a wooded 5-acre plot one mile west of the village and is donating it to Bark River township for recreational purposes for the surrounding communities.

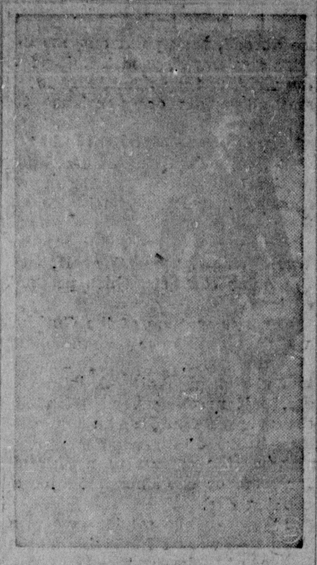

Dinosaur Bones Found Near Harriman, N. Y.

HARRIMAN, N. Y. — (AP) — Fossil bones of a dinosaur, at least 150 million years old, have been unearthed near here by a power shovel digging a drainage ditch.

The bones, found about four feet underground, were discovered last Thursday by the operators of the shovel, John Leinweber and Christopher Schnick, both of Warwick, N. Y., who reported their find yesterday.

Scientists who have seen the fossils say they belonged to an anchisaurus, a dinosaur which commonly grew to a height of about six feet. Among the bones are a rear leg, jaw bone and parts of ribs.

There is nothing serious between us. I think it is better that way because love affairs very quickly become tiring.—Greek actress Irene Papa who has been linked romantically with Aly Khan.

YOU'RE SURPRISED? — You're not half as surprised as were the citizens of Frankfurt, Germany, when Pfc. Kenneth D. Frost, left, of Ithaca, N. Y., and Pfc. Olis V. Thompson, of Stillwater, Okla., wheeled through the streets on their unicycles. Beside saving on the price of tires, the soldiers have both hands free for saluting.

Dud Bombs Killing German Citizens

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Bombs and shells from the last World War are still killing people in Germany. Rubble left by Allied air raids still hides many dud bombs.

Ten major explosions of wartime bombs or munitions within the last three years have killed 27 and wounded 21 persons. A recent U. S. Army report said its bomb disposal squads had disarmed some 1,400 items of unexploded ammunition during the first three months of this year. In the second half of last year, 122,000 duds were recovered.

For many years to come, peacetime Germany will be fighting bombs.

Can't Keep Grandma At Home Any More

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK— (AP) —This is the heyday of grandma.

Grandma no longer worries about acting her age. Grandma is the spirit of the modern age. We are living in the age of the jet-propelled grandma.

HAL BOYLE

There was a time when women hated the thought of becoming a grandmother, and maybe most of them still do. Being a grandmother then meant putting on a little lace cap and sitting by the fire with a cat in her lap, while life passed you by. Dear old granny—all she had left was her memories of more active days.

But today? A girl just starts hitting her stride by the time she's a grandma. Some of the best years of her life are still ahead of her after she finishes untying her apron strings.

Look at the world around you. You'll find grandmas taking leading roles in practically every field except flagpole-sitting, and the only reason they don't go in for flagpole-sitting is that it is just too dog-gone sedentary of them.

Who is the best known living American artist? Most people would say Grandma Moses, whose brush is still as busy as ever.

Have Glamor

Glamor is supposed to be the property of the young-in-years, but three Hollywood grandmas—Joan Bennett, Marlene Dietrich and Gloria Swanson—have seemingly timeless beauty that is the envy of many a more youthful actress.

One of the newest television stars is a grandma—Mrs. Arthur Murray. And in the bright arena of the theater who shines more luminously than dear old granny Gertrude Lawrence? She twinkles forever young, forever, fair, and will keep on, we trust, ulntil she is at least a great great grandmother.

Grandma's place used to be in the home. Not any more. Some grandmas hold top industrial and political posts. They direct everything from racing stables to baseball clubs. And they run for Congress. Get elected now and then, too. There's even a grandma sheriff around somewhere.

It's A Head Start

The literary world has known few more consistently successful authors than Grandma Mary Roberts Rinehart, who has written so many best sellers it would take a catalogue to list them all.

The busiest grandmother of all, of course, is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who year after year in polls taken among women is voted by them as one of the outstanding representatives of the sex.

Perhaps no woman of her time has been more widely recognized in so many fields. Her only concession to her years has been the purchase of a new hearing aid.

But the one sure formula for success today is to be born a grandma. It gives you a real head start in life.

Sow Perennial Flowers With Your Vegetables

Throughout the year, perennial flowers provide the picturesque garden with its headline attractions—its tallest and largest show girls. And nearly all garden flowers that blossom in spring and early summer are perennials.

While many perennials will not "come true" from seed, and so are multiplied by dividing their roots, there is a long list which can be grown from seed as easily as radishes.

The time to plant these seeds is at the same time as the radishes, and right alongside them, if practical. They germinate best in the spring, being as hardy as oaks. With an early start they will be large enough to move to the garden border in the fall, and the following year will produce a full crop of blooms.

If you wait until summer, as many do, the difficulties of germinating seed and growing these plants will be much greater, and the plants will have less time to grow up before winter.

Nearly all the perennials which can be grown from seed are native forms, collected originally as wild plants, and improved only by selecting the finest plants as seed parents. Those which are the product of hybridizing will seldom come true from seed; but there are exceptions, such as delphiniums and hollyhocks, which have been fairly well fixed. Peonies and iris, by contrast, have never been trued and to obtain named varieties, plants must be bought.

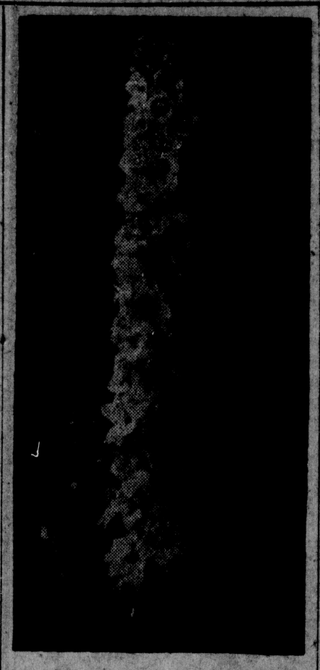

So there are relatively few new perennial varieties which you can produce from seed, but hundreds of lovely old ones, many in danger of being lost because the new generation of gardeners does not know their charm.

Columbines are much the same now as they were in grandmother's day, and there is no more beautiful flower. The blue anchusas with forget - me - not flowers borne on tall spikes, look well with any other color, and make all other colors look better. Arabis, and cerastium, which bear dwarf clumps of white flowers in the border; anthemis, yellow daisy; dianthus plumarius, the clove or grass pinks; hesperus or sweet rocket, fragrant phlox-like flowers of white and lilac, borne in midsummer; hibiscus, the lovely blue linum, and lavender veronicas; all these are flowers for the garden, not for cutting. They help enrich the beauty of the perennial border throughout the summer, each contributing its share to a beautiful whole.

Of these flowers you need many plants; and once they are established in your garden you will greet them with delight each year, when they come to pay you a brief visit. They will grow so vigorously you must hold them in check, by digging up overgrown clumps and dividing them with your friends and neighbors.

Mysterious Forces Raise Great Lakes

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Rising water washing at the doorsteps of cities from Duluth to Chicago, from Sault Ste. Marie to Toronto, gives increasing evidence of a Great Lakes mystery. America's five inland seas are brimming over.

Born of the melting Ice Age, the Great Lakes contain half the fresh water on earth, the National Geographic Society says. Behind the hard-rock sills of Niagara Falls and the "Soo", lying in huge stair-stepped basins, is enough water to cover the continental United States 10 to 18 feet deep.

Levels of the Great Lakes fluctuate from year to year, month to month, and day to day. In the last year, the lakes have risen to more than four feet above normal. As the runoff of a wet winter flows in from a 325,000-square-mile watershed, all five lakes have been creeping even higher.

Man Versus Nature

While damage spreads, irate property owners sue the U. S. Government. State and Federal agencies investigate; Congress passes resolutions. Yet experts say that all the works of man on the Great Lakes —dams and canals, dikes and dredging—have affected water levels only a matter of a few inches over the last century.

Nature measures its changes in feet. Etched in ancient shorelines, carved by channels that once ran wide and deep where dry valleys and cities stand today, are boundaries the lakes have filled over a period of 35,000 years. Wind and storm slosh the waters back and forth in their beds. Rain and drought are constantly changing the levels of the lakes.

Around the deep-cradled water the earth's surface is gradually tilting. Over long centuries, north and east of the lakes, the land is lifting, recovering very slowly from a massive dimple pressed into the earth by the crushing weight of the great ice cap. South and west of the lakes, the earth is sinking. Shorelines of all the lakes are slowly changing.

There are tides in the Great Lakes pulled by moon and sun, but they are small. Of far greater effect are low and high pressure areas moving across the waters with the changing weather. As the lake surface is pushed down in one place, it rises in another. Such oscillations are called seiches.

River Reservoirs

In the end, the Great Lakes can be regarded as the bulging headwaters of a single river. From the western tip of Lake Superior, they form the upper basin of the St. Lawrence—natural reservoirs feeding and controlling its relentless outflow to the sea.

Over the limestone lip of Niagara pours 212,000 cubic feet of water a second. It surges into Lake Ontario, and out again through the sieve of the Thousand Islands. Far above, and from all the shores, water comes into the lakes from countless streams and brooks, rivulets and forest-borderel rivers.

Between the two, source and ceaseless outflow, a balance is struck. When wet years follow each other closely, the lakes rise; in dry decades, they fall. Against beaches and towering bluffs, the water level floods and ebbs, never quite the same, never still.

Movies Entitled To Free Speech

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The supreme court ruled unanimously that movies are entitled to the constitutional guarantees of free speech and free press.

But at the same time, the high tribunal struck down the action of New York State in barring Roberto Rosellini's "The Miracle" on the sole grounds that it was sacriligious.

Justice Clark, writing the court's main opinion, said:

"In seeking to apply the broad and all-inclusive definition of 'sacriligious' given by the New York courts, the censor is set adrift upon a boundless sea amid a myriad of conflicting currents of religious views, with no charts but those provided by the most local and powerful orthodoxies. New York cannot vest such unlimited restraining control over motion pictures in a censor."

Clark said that since the term "sacrilegious" was the sole standard under attack in the case, it was not necessary for the court to decide now whether a state may censor motion pictures "under a clearly-drawn statute."

Clark did note, however, that the court today was striking down a 1915 decision in an Ohio film censorship case. At that time, the tribunal said movies are not a publication medium entitled to the constitutional protections of free speech and press, that they were primarily a form of entertainment.

Effective use of fighter planes from ships dates back to 1912, when the catapult was introduced.

Midget Auto Dodges Police In Detroit But Loses Race In End

DETROIT—(AP)—A midget auto played the role of a mouse in a cat-and-mouse act with a police cruiser. For a while it was winning, but in the end it lost.

The little car (Crosley) darted into an alley after police said it made an illegal turn. Then it squeaked through a narrow opening between a parked car and a fence. The broader-beamed scout car, in hot pursuit, was forced to make a detour.

The police officers radioed for reinforcements. But they weren't needed. Nearby, police found the tiny object of their chase parked at a curb. They arrested Emil Olszewski, 22, on a charge of reckless driving and quoted him as admitting—somewhat proudly—that he had eluded them for a time.

Our well-organized distribution pattern and fast delivery service is your guarantee that, as always, these products will be rushed oven-fresh to your store.

The use of the latest equipment and methods, including giant mixers, 300-foot traveling ovens, and intricate packaging machinery, means economical production and the lowest possible prices.

This move opens new fields, new opportunities for our employees. Provisions have been made to transfer our supervisory people to the new plant.

But even with these striking advances we shall not rest our case. Backed by the research facilities, the management skills, and financial resources of our parent company — the United Biscuit Company of America — we shall continue to improve our products and services so that we may always offer them to you with pride and complete confidence of quality and good taste.

AS WE LIVE

A Little Wifely Flattery Makes Man Willing Helper

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

There are some people who are willing to do anything to help a friend, but when it comes to their own families, it is a different story. That is the problem facing the wife who wrote:

(Q) "My husband is very handy about the house. When he helps friends and relatives, he is most gracious and is a willing worker. But when it comes to doing anything in our house, he curses and complains about something all the time. The children and I suffer while he is just plain mad. I try putting off anything that must be done because I dread it so. If we were in a financial position to have it done, that would solve the problem, but we are not. What shall I do, suffer in silence and have the work done or leave the work undone and have peace and quiet?"

(A) Of course the work should be done and of course you should not have to suffer in silence or any other way. The home is your husband's as well as yours. Pride should make him want to have things in good shape, and if he is hands, it should be just as much pleasure for him to work at home as for outsiders.

Perhaps outsiders praise and flatter him more than you do and that is why he is so willing to work for them and to be so gracious about it. Have you tried letting him know how much you appreciate and admire his work, or do you just take it for granted? A man needs praise from his wife as much as he does from outsiders.

Continue asking your husband to do the jobs that must be done to keep the home in condition and in good running order. Then ignore his complaints at first and see if praise and flattery will not change his attitude.

If, after a reasonable trial, this fails, then give him an ultimatium. Either he does the work cheerfully and pleasantly, without making nervous wrecks out of the whole family, or you will employ someone to do the work for you. Don't bluff. Keep your word. After he has had to pay a few bills for work he could easily do and do as well if not better than an outsider will do them, he may decide that it is money in his pockets to help his family before he helps outsiders.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Helen A. Sohlberg To Retire After 31 Years Of Service To College

Miss Helen A. Sohlberg, Dean of Women at North Park College, Chicago, will retire at the end of the current school year following 31 years in the service of the college, the major part of which was spent in the position held at present.

Miss Sohlberg plans on coming to Gladstone to make her home with her brother, A. Theodore Sohlberg, and her niece, Helen Marie Sohlberg, at the Sohlberg home, 1107 Wisconsin avenue.

Miss Sohlberg was recently the guest of honor at several functions at the college.

The Campus Girls held a tea to which the faculty and former Caroline Hall Girls were invited. Miss Sohlberg was presented with a valuable wrist watch, suitably engraved.

Several days later, the faculty women—wives and teachers—at the college honored her at a dessert luncheon in Sohlberg Commons. Reminiscing about former Caroline Hall girls formed the main diversion. The guest of honor was presented with a combination radio-phonograph.

2 Found Guilty Of Fish Charge

John Moore, Marquette, Navy recruiter, and William Moore, Escanaba, welder for an industrial firm, were found guilty by jury yesterday in justice court of attempting to spear walleyed pike early in May.

Justice A. T. Sohlbegr fined the men $25 and costs amounted to a little over $38.

Serving on the jury were Fred Hoover, R. I. Simpson, Lawrence Bouchard, Kenneth Johnson, Bernard DeHooghe and August Feldt.

The men were arrested on May 3 by Conservation Officer Glenn Price of Gladstone at the Black Rapids in the Whitefish River.

Price testified he watched the brothers for a considerable time before dark, and later could hear what he took for the sounds of a spear striking rock in the river. He said one of the men had a sack which appeared to be weighted.

He said he went into the water and that when he told the man he learned later was John Moore he was under arrest, the man broke away and ran for the east bank and disappeared. He then went up to the other man, whom he identified as William Moore, and told him he was under arrest and asked for the spear. He said Moore said he couldn't have it and he forcibly took it away from him. William also fled, he said, across the river.

Officer Price later met Conservation Officer Gilbert Larson and the two came down the road a ways and stopped four autos to check for the two men. Shortly before midnight on May 3 the two men came along in an auto which had been parked near a trail which led to Black Rapids.

Both men testified they had been trout and walleye fishing (the latter is legal in a trout stream with rod and reel) and at no time had engaged or attempted to engage in spearing.

Teach People To Believe In Community, Billings States In C-C Address

Teach your people to believe in your community — educate your employes so that they can answer the questions of tourists—keep your committees actively on the job—build your membership so that more people have a part in the community development program—this was some of the advice offered by Howard H. Billings, of Iron River, president of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, in an address Monday evening at the annual booster banquet of the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

Billings, who has been active for several years in civic and resort affairs of Iron County, compared the chamber of commerce to a basketball team, "It takes teamwork to win, and no one man can do it alone," he said.

There are resort operators who think they can do it alone, he pointed out, and they ride along on the coat tails of others who work together. Cooperation is essential, however, if this community is to profit fully from its recreational possibilities, and cooperation between Upper Peninsula communities is just as vital if the north country is to derive the fullest benefits from the resort business, the speaker said.

"Your Community"

"This is your community," he said. "Every dollar you have is invested here. For better or worse your whole future is committed to Manistique. Those who have left your community would return quickly if there were jobs for them."

Through the chamber of commerce the people of this community have an opportunity to work together for civic promotion and development, Billings stated.

The speaker emphasized the importance of teaching local citizens, particularly employes of business establishments, about Manistique and instilling in them an enthusiastic belief in the community. "They should be able to answer normal questions visitors ask and be enthusiastic when directing tourists to the area's scenic attractions," he said.

Stresses U. P. Unity

Billings stressed the "oneness" of Upper Peninsula people, stating that the average U. P. citizen feels at home as soon as he crosses the Straits of Mackinac, no matter in what part of the peninsula he lives.

The same unity applies to our area advertising, he said—the resore promotional efforts of Iron County help Manistique, and Manistique's advertising in return aids Iron River business.

In concluding his message Billings predicted that 1952 should be a banner resort year in the Upper Peninsula.

The speaker was introduced by William A. Corson, former chamber president, who officiated as toastmaster. Others who spoke were Vernon C. Linderoth, mayor of Manistique; Carl Graves, new chamber president; and Fred D. Heltman, executive secretary of the chamber.

The annual banquet, held at the Elks Temple, was well attended.

Legionnaire Is Called Top Fighter

HANOI, Indo-China — (AP) — Those romantic, adventurous men of the Foreign Legion who sometimes figure in Hollywood movies look just like they do in the films.

The legionnaires in their colorful uniforms are often honor guard for a visiting dignitary. They also spearhead assaults against Communist Vietminh forces. The several thousand legionnaires here have made an enviable reputation as fighting men.

In Indo-China, 46 per cent of the legionnaires are German. Fourteen per cent are Polish. The rest come from various other countries.

Will Dedicate New Town Hall

Combined services dedicating the Manistique town hall and honoring the township's war dead of World War II and the Korean War will be held at 10 a. m. Friday, May 30, it is announced by William Rodman, township supervisor.

Memorial services for the war dead will be conducted by the Manistique Veterans of Foreign Wars. Dedicatory services, under the auspices of the township board, will be highlighted by an address by William J. Sheahan, prosecuting attorney.

Included on the program will be presentation of corsages to the township's Gold Star Mothers.

William Rodman, supervisor, will officiate at the ceremony.

The township has a record of seven killed in the two wars, six in World War II and one in the Korean conflict.

The town hall was first used for township board and other meetings following its construction two years ago. Since then an addition has been built to provide space for restrooms. The main building measures 32 by 60 feet in size, plus the addition added last yea It is of wood construction and is considered the most modern town hall in the county. Since its completion it has been extensively used for organization meetings. Following its dedication it will be known as the Manistique T wnship Memorial Hall.

A new well, operated by an electric pump, was completed at the hall last week. The well was drilled to a depth of 300 feet and provides a copious supply of good water.

Rodman said that a plywood plaque, with the names of the township's soldier dead painted on insertable wood strips, will be put up in the hall Thursday night.

The public is invited to the twin ceremonies.

Ten Eggs An Hour Too M' 'n For Hen

CUDWORTH, Eng.—(AP)—World titlist Jennifer—the hen that laid 10 eggs in less than an hour—was dead today from overwork.

The pink-eyed prolific chicken hadn't produced for farmer Charlie Rogers for days. But he brought her into his home in front of the fire on Monday and Jennifer let loose—a jackpot of 10.

"Jenny spent Monday night in her cardboard box and I tried to make her eat," Rogers' daughter explained. "But the laying effort had been too much for her."

Neither Jenny nor her 10 eggs will provide a single morsel on any dining table, despite Britain's food shortages.

"I've asked a taxidermist to set Jenny up in a glass case with those 10 eggs," Rogers said.

In appreciation, these sufferers from rheumatism, arthritis and stomach trouble relate their experiences below. Their recommendations are offered here as more convincing proof that O-JIB-WA BITTERS is worth your trial.

"I give full credit to O-JIB-WA BITTERS for I no longer have an ache or pain in my body. I sincerely believe that there is no better medicine made. Arthritis made it difficult to get out of bed in the morning and many mornings I had to use crutches to get around at all. O-JIB-WA not only did away with my arthritis, but did wonders for my gas and indigestion as well."

MR. KOEPKE
Detroit

"The dull heavy ache of rheumatism and arthritis in my shoulders and hands kept me awake many nights. It was almost impossible to hold a fork in my hand to feed myself, and I had to give up sewing. After using O-JIB-WA BITTERS just seven weeks, I am living a normal life again free of pain and stiffness."

MRS. KARAS
Flint

"Rheumatism and arthritis in my legs and hips really stiffened me up. Even pumping water was almost impossible, and when I sat in a chair for any length of time, I stiffened up so that it was really hard to get up at all. But O-JIB-WA BITTERS has changed all this. After using it for only a month and a half, I am completely better."

MR. McLEOD
Saginaw

"O-JIB-WA BITTERS did wonders for my arthritis. I suffered 10 years with it in both ankles, feet, and left arm. After taking this wonderful medicine for two months, my arthritis has entirely left me and what's more, I feel 100% better and have more pep than I've had in many years."

MR. CANFIELD
Kalamazoo

"For 2½ months I couldn't work at all. I was in constant pain, and my ankles swelled up so I couldn't wear shoes. Even walking with a cane was slow and painful. After taking O-JIB-WA BITTERS three weeks the swelling began to go, and in a couple of months the rheumatism left me and I was able to work again."

MR. LARSON
Negaunee

"I suffered almost continually with rheumatism and arthritis in my back and fingers since 1946, making housework very hard to do. Even getting out of bed in the morning was a task. After taking only two bottles of O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I am so greatly improved that I am able to do all my housework again and dress myself with ease."

MRS. SMITH
Detroit

"Before I took O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I suffered with rheumatism through my entire body. Any work was painful and hard, and I was always tired, very nervous and drowsy all day. Your medicine really put me on my feet again and I am now working in a convalescent home as well as doing my own housework. The rheumatism has left me entirely and I feel better in every way."

MRS. MAITLAND
Ludington

"Gas, indigestion and stomach trouble bothered me for six years, and although I tried many medicines, nothing helped me until I used O-JIB-WA BITTERS. It not only eliminated my stomach trouble and gas, but did wonders for my liver and kidneys. I also have a lot more pep and my general health has greatly improved."

The Tri County baseball league swings into action with a full slate of Memorial Day games Friday.

The Escanaba Bears will entertain undefeated Wallace in a 2:30 game at the city diamond in which the new high school player-studded lineup will be unveiled for the first time.

Wallace shares the league lead with Stephenson. The Wallace victories in the two opening games were one-sided affairs, 19-4 over Daggett and 21-12 over Foster City.

New Players

Manager Jack Beck today listed the new players who will be in action Friday afternoon. High school stars expected to join the Bears include John Martinac, third base; Paul Gunderman, shortstop; Pete Kutches, second base; Jack Chriske, pitch; Jojo Johnston, catch; Bob Sendenbergh, shortstop, and Paul Baldwin, outfield. Fred Boddy, pitcher, and Tippy Larmay, outfielder, may also be available. Martinac, Kutches and Sendenbergh played with the Bears last week against Wilson.

The new players will join Beck, Ray Menard, Babe Kleiman, Jim Nyquist, Bob LaHouillier and Red Kreig who have all seen action in previous games. Either Menard or Kreig will open on the mound, Beck said.

The Bears will return to action again with a doubleheader. The first game will be at Foster City at 1:30 and will be followed by a nightcap at Felch—rained out the first day of the season.

All other teams will see action Friday afternon. Stephenson will seek to protect its share in the lead in a home stand against once-beaten Felch. Bark River invades Perronville, Hermansville shoots for its second win at home to Wilson and Foster City entertains Daggett.

Bay de Noc Protest Upheld By President

Bay de Noc baseball league commissioner Edward (Bud) Gibbs today announced that a Fayette protest resulting from a pitcher's balk in a game with Cooks on May 18 has been upheld.

The protest was submitted by Carl VanRemortel, manager of the Fayette team. The situation, as described by the league commissioner, follows:

"With none out in the seventh inning and Fayette runners on first and second, the Cooks pitcher interrupted a windup to throw out a Fayette runner going to third base.

"The plate umpire states that he did not see the balk. The base umpire states that the pitcher did commit a balk. The plate umpire, after consulting the base umpire, still ruled that the runner was out and called it so. The protest was made at this point and the game was continued."

In upholding Fayette's protest, Commissioner Gibbs stated: "Under such circumstances, when an umpire does not see an action, it is his duty to accept the decision of the umpire who did see it and rule accordingly.

"The protest, therefore, is upheld and the game shall be resumed at the point of protest with Fayette runners on second and third with none out. The managers concerned will arrange the time of completion which shall not be later than the end of first round play, June 29. Only players in uniform on May 18 will be allowed to participate."

Cooks led in the protested game 8-6 when the disputed play took place and went on to win 9-6. As a result of the protest the game will not be included in the league standings until it is completed.

Non-Title Bout For Cuban Kid

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Kid Gavilan of Cuba leaves his world welterweight title at home but puts his reputation on the line tonight in a 10-round bout with Fitzie Pruden of Paterson, N. J.

Gavilan is the favorite. He had to finish fast to outpoint Prudent in a 10-rounder at Milwaukee a year ago, but Pruden has lost his last three bouts—two to Arthur King and one to Chico Vejar.

The fight will be Gavilan's last before his title defense July 7 against unbeaten Gil Turner of Philadelphia in the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium.

Promoter Bob Wormser, who is staging the bout in co-operation with the International Boxing club, said the crowd at the Coliseum would be close to 10,000 persons.

The bout has caused a change in Indiana's foul rule. Until now a referee has been permitted to award a decision to a fighter who is fouled, but the rule has been changed to require the loss of the round only. This is the rule in most states.

The fight will be telecast and broadcast by CBS at 9 p. m. (EST).

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Samuel Jackson Snead goes after his third Western open golf championship tomorrow morning at Westwood Country Club.

Encouraging factor to Snead is the addition of a second son to the Snead household at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Slammin' Sammy got word of the new arrival yesterday before he toured the 6,616-yard Westwood course on a practice round.

Snead is aiming at the $2,400 first prize and his third title. He won Western championship in 1949 and 1950.

'Beat Hogan' Tourney At Escanaba Golf Club

Plans were announced today for an Escanaba Golf Club tournament to "beat Hogan"—Harry Hogan, not to be confused with another golfer by the name of Ben—on Memorial Day.

The tournament coincides with the national promotion for "Beat Ben Hogan Day" and the takeoff honors the Escanaba Club's vice president and past club champion.

Harry Hogan is one of Escanaba's outstanding golfers and his career should be an inspiration for all youngsters as he rose from the caddie ranks to become one of the greatest competitors in the club's history. It is claimed that Harry has walked more miles around the Escanaba course than any other living member.

"If Harry had gone on into tournament golf he would have been among the best," says Eddie Ernst, club pro. "He's a good competitor, a good sport, and he deserves this honor," Ernst added.

"Beat Hogan" tournament play will begin early Friday and continue throughout the day. There will be a "bogie" and prizes will be awarded. Dinner will be served in the evening.

The Escanaba club will begin its two-ball foursome matches on Sunday. These will be mixed doubles with the men and women alternating their golf shots. Prizes will be awarded the winning teams.

Kansas City, Brews Lose

(By The Associated Press)

Milwaukee and Kansas City both dropped American Association games Tuesday night and continued their virtual tie for the league leadership.

Daryl Spencer's eighth-inning home run for Minneapolis broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Millers a 3-2 victory over Milwaukee. Meanwhile, Miller lefthander Roger Bowman was doling out only four hits.

St. Paul beat Kansas City 11-9 on a 13-hit assault sparked by Dan Ozark's home run and two doubles.

On other games, Columbus beat third-place Louisville 11-1 behind Ralph Beard's four-hit hurling and a 14-hit assault topped by Charlie Kress' home run, and Indianapolis and Toledo split a doubleheader. Toledo won the opener 7-5 and Indianapolis the nightcap 5-2.

Mystery Of Cut Baseballs Bothers Brooklyn Dodgers

BROOKLYN—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, perplexed and bewildered by their inability to cope with the pitching of New York's Sal Maglie, were seeking the answer to still another mystery today.

"Was Maglie aided and abetted by cut-up baseballs in his spectacular 3-0 shutout win over the Brooks last night?"

That was what several unidentified Dodgers insinuated today after an eagle-eyed and somewhat suspicious Dodger discovered that five of the used baseballs in the Dodger bat-bag had ominous cuts on them.

"I've never seen such cuts on a ball before," said one Dodgers who did not want his name used. "I'm not saying Maglie made those cuts but he certainly took advantage of them."

Manager Charles Dressen of the Dodgers minimized the latest development.

"Balls are always getting cut up in a game," said Dressen. "They could have been scuffed up when they hit against a railing or bounded off the brick background behind home plate."

Maglie professed ignorance of any cut-ups.

Little Leaguers and Pony Leaguers receive extra protection at the plate in the form of headgears which take much of the danger out of wild pitches. The youngsters, not so adept at falling away from those high inside pitches, wear protective headgears much like football helmets except that they are open at the top. The padding comes down over the ears and gives good protection. Little League officials inform us that the helmets saved several youngsters from lumps on the head last season.

One baseball player in the Tri County league learned to his sorrow that you can't always believe everything you hear. A Wilson runner was on first base against the Escanaba Bears last Sundy and dug for second for a perfect steal. But as he pulled up to the bag, second baseman Pete Kutches greeted him with: "Hey, you can't take this base." The runner stopped, turned around and trotted back to first while everybody was standing around dumbfounded.

Spartans Rated Net Favorites

EAST LANSING — (AP) — Defending champion Michigan State rates a strong favorite to win its second straight Big Ten tennis title at Evanston, Ill., this weekend.

Michigan State won eight of its nine regular season matches this season, the sole loss being a 5-4 edging by Indiana. The wins included 9-0 shutouts of Michigan, Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Three players undefeated in regular season play are given a good chance to take the singles crown.

Stan Drobac, a sophomore from Milwaukee, Wis., has won nine straight in the regular season and six out of seven in the southern training trip. Tom Belton, Dowagiac junior, has an identical record.

Dick Rieger, Kalamazoo senior, has won seven in a row since the southern trip.

Others adding to the team strength include Keith Kimble, Grand Rapids senior, with a 7-1 record in the regular season, and Dick Roberts, Ypsilanti junior, with an 8-1 season's record.

No Change In ABC Tournament Leaders

Anderson, twice a finalist in the Chicago all-star tournament (1941-48) had 620 in the team event, 688 in doubles and 698 in singles in averagng 211.2.

Maglie Wins Ninth Game

Master Barber Shaves Bums

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If Brooklyn is distressed today blame it on New York's Salvatore Maglie.

His dreaded curve ball cutting the corner as sharp as a razor, Sal (The Barber) Maglie treated the Dodgers to one of his copy-righted clippings last night as he pitched the Giants to a 3-0 triumph.

Sal Maglie

The righthander was in an especially clip-happy mood. He not only strapped the Brooks with four meager hits but cut down six of them via strikeouts. Sal's earned run percentage is now 1.14.

It was a big victory for the Giants as well as for the 35-year-old Maglie. It not only was the Giants sixth straight triumph but it was their second in a row over their arch interborough rivals and it increased their National league lead over the Brooks to a game and a half.

For Maglie it was the ninth straight win. He has yet to taste defeat this season. It also was his second straight shutout over the Dodgers. He limited them to two hits the other time he faced them.

The Giants got only six hits off loser Ben Wade and John Rutherford but they included homers by Willie Mays and Don Mueller. The latter singled and eventually brought in the third run in the ninth inning. Mays, who plays his last 1952 game for the Giants today before his induction Thursday, also doubled twice.

Maglie's was not the only outstanding pitching performance yesterday. Allie Reynolds of no-hit fame yielded only two safeties as he hurled the New York Yankees to a 7-2 victory over the Washington Senators. Both came in the fourth inning and accounted for the Nats' tallies.

Homers For Yogi

Yogi Berra, Reynolds' batterymate in his two no-hitters of last year, hit a pair of homers and a double. Irv Noren, principal figure in the May 3 trade with Washington, shipped in with a two-run homer. Jackie Jensen, who went to the Nats in the deal, doubled in one Washington run and moved a runner to third from where he scored on Mickey Vernon's fly.

Washington remained in a tie for second with Boston still two and a half games off the American league pace when both Cleveland and the Red Sox were beaten. Vic Wertz' three-run homer climaxed a six-run sixth inning outburst by Detroit to give the Tigers a 6-4 decision over the Indians. Bob Lemon absorbed his fourth defeat after pitching five innings of hitless ball. Hal Newhouser, in relief, picked up his first victory.

Gus Zernial's two-run homer in the fifth and Eddie Joost's two-run double in the ninth gave rookie Harry Byrd his first win and the Philadelphia Athletics a 7-3 triumph over the Red Sox.

Cards Cop

Saul Rogovin pitched the Chicago White Sox to a six-hit 3-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Eddies Stewart singled in two runs in the first and Eddie Robinson banged his fifth homer in the ninth. Ned Garver, who turned in shutouts in his first two starts, absorbed his fifth straight licking.

Enos Slaughter rapped four hits including a home run and Stan Musial also came through with a four-bagger to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-5 win over the Chicago Cubs. Gerry Etaley coasted to his eighth mound success.

Eddie Pellagrini, inserted at first base because of a recurrence of a shoulder injury to Hank Edwards, banged a 14th inning home run to give the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh.

Boston's Braves and Philadelphia's Phils split a twi-night doubleheader. Three singles and an infield out gave the Braves two runs in the 12th and a 4-2 opening game win. A triple by Del Ennist and Willie Jones' fly gave the Phils a 5-4 second game triumph in the 10th.

Eight Rookies In '500' Race

Indianapolis—(AP)—Eight first-year men and 25 Indianapolis Motor Speedway veterans who will drive in the 500-mile auto race Friday had their last chance to practice today.

The two and one-half mile track will be closed Thursday for its pre-race cleaning.

The Air Force putts the accent on youth, but an Air Force corporal has to yieud to a civilian as the youngest driver in the lineup.

Cpl. Jimmy Reece of Oklahoma City and Warner-Robbins Air Force Base, Ga., was 22 years old last Nov. 17. Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., was 22 last March 11.

Ruttman will be driving in his fourth "500", although the minimum age is 21. He was 21st in the 1949 race; 22nd in 1950 and 21st again last year.

Chet Miller, 49, who set the latest qualifying record in his Novi Pure Oil Special at 139.034 miles an hour, is the oldest driver in both age and speedway experience. He will be starting his 16th race.

Neither the driver nor the car of the 1951 winning combination will be back to defend the 500-mile record of 126.244 miles an hour. The driver, Lee Wallard, has not fully recovered from burns suffered in an accident at Reading, Pa., four days after the 500. Tony Bettenhausen cracked up the car in a qualification attempt last Saturday.

Court Takes Off To Attend Ball Game

NEW YORK — (AP)—The complicated figures of security underwriting take a back seat today to a score card for the Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants baseball game.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina has adjourned for the day the 18-month-old civil anti-trust suit brought by the government against 17 investment banking firms.

In the midst of the complicated case earlier this month, Medina asked: "How about going to a ball game?"

There were no objections, and today court moves from the Federal Building to Ebbets Field.

An innovation this season at the Hialeah race track is an automatic electrtic indicator board for the bleacher section.

Scoreless Streak Stops As Tigers Top Indians 6 To 4

DETROIT— (AP) —The Detroit Tigers and the league leading Cleveland Indians tangle here tonight in the second game of a three game series started last night in Cleveland.

The Tigers broke out of a 24 inning streak of scoreless play to rack up six runs in a big sixth inning at Municipal stadium and hand the Tribe a 6-4 loss.

Vic Wertz

The six runs equalled the Tiger's record for the number of runs scored in an inning this year.

Bengel batters also bombarded Cleveland pitchers for six runs last April when Art Houtteman won a 13-0 one hit decision over the Indians.

Three-Run Homer

A crowd of 15,615 fans saw outfielder Vic Wertz pace the slugging spree with a three run homer over the right field wall scoring George Kell and Steve Souchock ahead of him. The four bagger was Wertz's eighth of the season.

He belted it off the first pitch of Lou Brissie who relieved starter Bob Lemon. Lemon, who absorbed his fourth loss of the year, held the Tigers hitless through the first five innings.

In the sixth, he walked Joe Ginsberg. Lipon singled to left and Jerry Priddy doubled to score Ginsberg. Lipon scored on a wild pitch. Lemon left the game after another walk to Souchock and a single by Kell.

Veteran Hal Newhouser received credit for the Tiger win. It was his first this year as against two losses. Newhouser relieved starter Marlin Stuart with none out in the first inning.

Stuart loaded the bases on walks to Harry Simpson and Al Rosen and a single to Bobby Avila.

Newhouser Hurls

Newhouser retired the Indians allowing only one run to score.

He hurled brilliant ball until lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth. Cleveland picked up three runs off the 31-year-old lefthander in the fourth—two of the runs followed a wild pitch by Ginsberg who attempted to pick off a runner at second base. Newhouser allowed only four hits during his mound stint.

Luke Easter accounted for the "untainted" Cleveland run in the three run uprising with his seventh home run of the year—a solid smash over the right field barrier.

Billy Hoeft took over in the seventh and allowed Tribe batters two hits. Manager Red Rolfe pulled Hoeft in the ninth inning as a precautionary measure when Simpson opened the frame with a double. Hal White finished the game.

Ted Gray, possessor of three wins as against four losses was Rolfe's choice for tonight's game. Gray will oppose Mike Garcia who has six wins as against two losses.

The Tigers and Indians play the final game of the series here tomorrow after which the Tigers depart on an extended road trip.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—They are holding another British amateur golf championship this week at Prestwick, the century-old links on the Scottish seacoast, and memory turns back vividly across a span of 18 years to the day Lawson Little scored possibly the most remarkable victory in the history of golf over the same sun-scorched, treeless layout.

Nothing which occurs in the final this Saturday is likely to match in any respect that tumultuous day which saw the brawny youngster from the West Coast win the first of four straight British and American amateur titles with a record-breaking 14 and 13 triumph over Jim Wallace, a sad-faced Scottish carpenter.

Such a score as Little shot that day may never again be matched by an amateur under equal circumstances. It is doubtful there ever will be another golfing gallery as shamelessly partisan in its behavior as the one which swarmed the dunes that day and angered Little and turned him into a killer.

Little, now long a leading professional, has said since that he doesn't believe he will ever again shoot such a blazing stretch of golf as he turned on the hapless Wallace, the unknown artisan from nearby Troon who somehow had played himself into the final round with a series of upsets of other American Walker Cup stars.

Little shot the first nine holes in 33 strokes and was 6 up. He shot the second nine in 33 and was 12 up. He scorched the first five holes of the afternoon round in 16 and the one-sided slaughter was over. He had taken 82 strokes for 23 holes, with every putt knocked down. On the final green Little shook hands with his dazed adversary and said "Jim, I'm sorry it had to be you."

The British Golfing Guide, which lists a number of the more famous feats of its championships, recalls that on his morning round Little became the first amateur ever to have shot an eagle three on the notorious "Cardinal" hole, which at that time measured 492 yards and required a blind shot to the small green. Wallace, who had a birdie on the same hole, did not win one of the 23 holes played.

Lest what was said earlier about the behaviour of the crowd be construed as a knock at Scottish galleries in general, it should be explained that the circumstances were abnormal. Prestwick is a manufacturing town—woolen mills or something of the sort—and when word got around that Wallace, the artisan, was battling a silver-spoon American in the final, school let out.

They came tearing in through the back gate by the thousands to cheer Wallace on. Most of them probably had not been on a golf course before, and they plainly didn't know some of the game's sissy rules. When Little putted they yelled "Miss it!" and as his ball neared the hole they shouted "Stay out!" It didn't take much of that to turn Little into a very rough customer and to doom the innocent Wallace to a frightful beating. Ordinarily, Scottish galleries are impeccable.

That evening, still glowing from Little's magnificent feat, we made bold to ask a Prestwick Club member if he didn't think Lawson's game coompared favorably with that of Bobby Jones. Our ears burn at the recollecttion of what he said. Seems that in Scotland you do not compare Wee Bobby" with anybody.

STRIKEOUT STORY — Bristol's Ron Necciai struck out 27 Welch., Va., batters in nine innings in the Class D Appalachian League to earn himself a "night" and promotion to a circuit of higher classification. This ran the incredible 19-year-old, six-foot five-inch Pittsburgh farm hand's total to 77 strikeouts in 32 innings. (NEA Photo)

Foreign-Born Learn Our Ways Very Rapidly

NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)— Hundreds of thousands of foreign born persons, most of whom fled the oppression of communism are beginning a new life in the United States and sometimes under the puzzled stares of native Americans who don't understand them.

Actually, however, the typical newcomer to this country, says Mrs. Edith Terry Bremer, national director of the American Federation of International Institutes, which aided 400,000 foreign born in the U.S. last year, is pretty much like the man on the street in any American community.

This average alien learning American ways and preparing himself for citizenship, according to Mrs. Bremer, feels this way:

Expects an early war between the United States and Russia.

Passionately desires security and a home.

Is extremely saving. (One Ukrainian couple in Philadelphia with combined weekly earnings of $75, saved $1100 in nine months because they wanted a home. But the diet of themselves and their two young children suffered as a result.)

Prides himself on the quality of his work rather than quantity.

Is a great churchgoer and doesn't have many vices (although his income generally is such that he couldn't afford many vices anyway, says Mrs. Bremer).

Doesn't know the difference between Democrats and Republicans. (Our politics are a mystery to him and unlike the average American, the immigrant thinks our criticism of public officials is terrible.)

Has a great respect for authority and is more law abiding than native or long - time naturalized Americans.

Is an eager beaver at work but he doesn't get the satisfaction from his work as he once did before the war and communism dimmed his hopes for a happy life in Europe. Chief reason for this is his ignorance of English, which limits his job opportunities and usually compels him to work at menial tasks.

Wants to become a citizen. (One of the first things he generally does is enroll in English classes at his local International Institute, which in addition to blending the immigrant into American community life, advises him, helps him find a job and living quarters when he first arrives and if necessary, loans him money without interest.)

That, says Mrs. Bremer, is a composite immigrant, almost all of whom are shocked at America's dirty streets and who daily struggle with the English language. Like one bewildered immigrant who asked a volunteer teacher in the Boston institute: "You have Mr. and Mrs. and Miss. But what's a lady?"
